The Magnificat Advent Companion

What are you expecting? My expectations are often outsized. I expect way too much from myself and way too little of others. Or, is it the other way around? Often we can't even understand our expectations because we get them mixed up with nostalgic desires for some one experience that will make everything right again. We hope, we pray, we long for something that will restore joy, peace and power in our lives. But nothing seems to fully satisfy. And so we get busy doing a million little things in the hope that we will finally find something... anything... to put our hope in. That's why I love Advent. In the middle of the commercial ramp up to gift-giving-palooza ... that holiday of holidays where everything is supposed to make us feel good if we just get the formula right... we are told to change our expectations. One Advent Expectation leads us to the One Gift: Jesus.

2020 Magnificat Advent Companion

Everything changes when God visits this world in the person of Christ. The holiday season exposes a tension that many of us feel--mourning and rejoicing, loss and gratitude, fear and faith. And many of us experience this tension from the front row. But there is hope and peace that is available right here and right now. The birth of Jesus Christ is a declaration of God's commitment to peace on earth and peace forever. This Advent devotional is written to help you consider how the peace of God can be experienced in your daily life. Everything changes when God visits this world in the person of Jesus Christ. What People Are Saying: "If we aren't careful, we can get so distracted by the busyness and the business of Christmas that we miss the peace and joy for which the season should bring to us. Jason has provided a helpful resource to center our hearts and minds around the true reality of Christmas. Cheryl and I will enjoy this as a part of our daily discipleship." - Ron Edmondson, Pastor and Consultant, Author of The Mythical Leader "In Jason Davila's book, The Hope of Peace: An Advent Devotional, he writes a Christmas devotional that addresses the root of many Christian's anxieties with gospel hope and clarity while offering a practical path towards peace. This devotional is especially helpful during the Christmas season, but is relevant year-round." - Jamaal Williams, Lead Pastor, Sojourn Midtown; President, The Sojourn Network "In a year unlike any other in my memory, filled with fear and void of form, I can't think of a better way to reset your life with the peace God gives to us through Jesus. Jason Davila's "The Hope of Peace: An Advent Devotional" will do more than help you understand true peace. The timeless truths presented in this fresh devotional will help you experience peace in your everyday life." - Dave Bruskas, Campus Pastor, The Village Church Fort Worth "Jason Davila's Advent devotional is perfect for our challenging times. It calls us to remember the true meaning of the Christmas season and invites us to experience the peace and joy that only Jesus can bring. A great devotional!" - Sherrinda Ketchersid, author of Lord of Her Heart

1 Advent Expectation

Advent is a time of expectant waiting, holy anticipation, leaning in, and preparing for what is to come. Of course, Christmas marks the arrival of our Savior. In the Gospels, we discover Jesus coming to earth in what is perhaps the most unusual and unexpected way... as a baby, born to an unwed teenage mom, in a small town's barn because there was no vacancy at the inn. This Advent devotional book attempts to highlight some of the less obvious circumstances and situations in which we discover God at work. It's about finding God - anticipating, looking for, expecting, and awaiting him in unexpected places.
