Ann Kullberg started COLOR magazine in 1999 with one idea in mind: to help people become better colored pencil artists and inspire newbies and masters alike to pick up their pencils and create art. Today, COLOR is THE magazine for colored pencil artists, packed full of artist profiles, how-tos from CP masters, tips, insights, and of course gorgeous colored pencil art. Inside this issue: From My Desk: Ann shares some COLOR Magazine history and invites you to take part. Step-by-Step: Lady Night -- Elena Adam's exotic tutorial encourages you to experiment with your imagination and creativity. Polycolor 144-Pencil Set -- Koh-I-Noor has released a new Polycolor 144-pencil set, and Harry wants to make sure COLOR readers are among the first to know. Animal Magnetism: Meet artist Kathryn Hansen, who shares her gorgeous artwork, her adventures in colored pencil, and why she loves creating animal art. The Society Page -- Strategies for keeping yourself safe from hackers, scammers, and bots from CPSA Communications Director Denise Howard. 21st Annual CP Magazine Member Show -- Here's how to enter COLOR's annual online show, where all experience levels are welcome.

Especially for Beginners! Starting Point -- Just how do you make pencil strokes and when do you use them? Jan Fagan has your answers. Critique: Louise Harmon's drawing of Roscoe -- Find out what Ann loves about a heart-warming seal named Roscoe. Passion Sells -- Corrina Thurston explains why you need to find the people who are looking for your art. Chalkboard Teacher Plan Book Temescal Press

WASPS is the first full-color, illustrated guide featuring approximately 150 species of flower-visiting wasps that occur in eastern North America, and the specific native plants and habitat each species depends upon. Written with an ecological lens, this richly-illustrated book details wasp diversity and has full-page profiles for each wasp species that include identification tips, geographic range maps, biology, prey, natural history and habitat. Five introductory chapters cover wasp taxonomy, nesting biology, prey-hunting behaviors, diet, anatomy, as well as wasp habitat enhancement and management, and the ecosystem services provided by wasps-insect pest population control and pollination. Profiles of each wasp species comprise the major part of the book and are organized by family, showcasing twelve families and sixty-eight wasp genera. Also included are eastern North American regional native plant guides, tips on wasp observation, and over 1000 stunning photographs. This is an essential book for conservationists, naturalists, insect enthusiasts, biologists, nature photographers, native plant aficionados, and anyone interested in beneficial insects and pollinators.

Who's in a Family? Carson Dellosa Education
The fact that approximately one-third of the world's land mass is arid desert may be congenial for the camel and the cactus, but not for people. Nevertheless, well over half a billion people, or 15% of the world's population live in arid desert areas. If the world's population were distributed evenly over the land surface, we would expect to find about 30% of the population inhabiting arid desert areas. Does the fact that 'only' 15% of the world's population live in an arid desert environment reflect the harshness of the environment? Or is it a testimony to the adaptability and ingenuity of mankind? Do we view the glass as half-full? Or half-empty? The contributors to Desert Development: Man and Technology in Sparselands adopt the position that the cup is half-full and, in fact, could be filled much more. Indeed, many arid desert zones do thrive with life, and given appropriate technological development, such areas could support even greater populations. While the dire Malthusian prediction that rapid world population growth exceeds the carrying capacity of existent resource systems has gained popularity (typified by the 1972 Club of Rome book, Limits to Growth), there is a growing body of serious work which rejects such pessimistic 'depletion' models, in favor of models which are mildly optimistic.
