"Having been born a freeman, and for more than thirty years enjoyed the blessings of liberty in a free State—and having at the end of that time been kidnapped and sold into Slavery, where I remained, until happily rescued in the month of January, 1853, after a bondage of twelve years—it has been suggested that an account of my life and fortunes would not be uninteresting to the public." -an excerpt Automotive News McGraw-Hill/Irwin

In Comeback, Pulitzer Prize-winners Paul Ingrassia and Joseph B. White take us to the boardrooms, the executive offices, and the shop floors of the auto business to reconstruct, in riveting detail, how America's premier industry stumbled, fell, and picked itself up again. The story begins in 1982, when Honda started building cars in Marysville, Ohio, and the entire U.S. car industry seemed to be on the brink of extinction. It ends just over a decade later, with a remarkable turn of the tables, as Japan's car industry falters and America's Big Three emerge as formidable global competitors. Comeback is a story propelled by larger-than-life characters -- Lee Iacocca, Henry Ford II, Don Petersen, Roger Smith, among many others -- and their greed, pride, and sheer refusal to face facts. But it is also a story full of dedicated, unlikely heroes who struggled to make the Big Three change before it was too late.

This book is my first

the wonder it holds within. This book contains a collection
of all my best poetry.
It's also a collection
of my hopes, my dreams, and my fears. I'm equally terrified of sharing
this and super excited to do so. This book is split into eight
different chapters.
Each chapter
represents a different part of my mind.

They might seem a little weird to you but trust me, this feels like I'm being called out and dissected at the same time. I can honestly tell you that writing this book feels very cathartic. It actually feels like I'm yelling into a pillow. Finishing this book is an even more cathartic experience. I'm happy and scared. What a strange emotion.
