50 Foods: The Essentials of Good Taste by Edward Behr is a book I will not soon finish reading. This is a book that I will continually use as a reference to enhance my knowledge, selection and use of many of the 50 foods listed (not all — no sweetbreads for me, thank you). This is in no way a cookbook, rather it is a complement to cooking.

Compacting the world ' s myriad foods to an inventory of just 50 may prove a formidable task. But Behr is up to the challenge and makes compelling and intelligent arguments for each of his selections. Beef, lamb, and veal appear, as do seafood and vegetables, such as green beans, and even condiments, such as vinegar.
