In Field of Love: Without this thought...Who am I? Martin Birrittella discusses self-inquiry along with his FREE Process technique to free the mind and the soul. Self-inquiry is a spiritual practice which has gained popularity over the last 100 years. This is largely due to a book titled Who am I? written by an Indian sage, Ramana Maharshi. The FREE Process is an expanded version of this same "Who am I?" inquiry, and includes additional questions which prompt the release of repressed and suppressed thoughts, feelings and identifications. This process frees the mind's limited self-imposed beliefs, and allows the mind to be receptive to the inquiry, "Without this thought, who am I?" When this inquiry is done with true intention a feeling of unqualified freedom is experienced as the mind sinks into its source, the Heart. Field of Love McGraw Hill Professional The authors invited more than 100 journalists worldwide to use photographs, charts and essays to explore the world of big data and its growing influence on our lives and society. McLaren M23 Rising Moon Books for Young Readers J.D. Anthony DeBarros, a journalist and data analyst, focuses on using SQL to find the story within your data. The examples and code use the open-source database PostgreSQL and its companion pgAdmin interface, and the concepts you learn will apply to most database management systems, including MySQL, Oracle, SQLite, and others.* You'll first cover the fundamentals of databases and the SQL language, then build skills by analyzing data from real-world datasets such as US Census demographics, New York City taxi rides, and earthquakes from US Geological Survey. Each chapter includes exercises and examples that teach even those who have never programmed before all the tools necessary to build powerful databases and access information quickly and efficiently.
