We must learn to reflect before we act; and no, act before you reflect. And speaking of action before reflection, it is common to hear the following excuses: - When I saw it, I had already done it! - When I saw it, I had already spoken! - Ah, at the time, I didn't see anything! - When I gave it by faith, I had passed over! We have seen that all of these are the result of measures that were certainly taken without having made a previous assessment, about the disastrous consequences; that many behaviors entail. When we reflect before acting; we gain time to evaluate the results of our actions. These acts that can mark our lives and those of others forever

A righteously satisfying read of a thriller, metaphysical novel, and screwball comedy, from the author of The Bear Comes Home. With the twists, turns, and smash-ups of a thriller, the sudden depths of a metaphysical novel, and the fizz of a screwball comedy, Street Legal is high entertainment and a righteously satisfying read, from the author of the greatest novel ever written about a saxophone-playing bear. Street Legal features an old-time skunk dealer, sniffing the new breezes, wants to open an Old-Time Grass Business Theme Park with rides and a disco. His foot soldier, a strapping, confused kid who might be on the spectrum. A frustrated cop who isn't allowed to collar anyone important because the town needs the business who consoles himself by trying to make a last-chance bust and grab some of the action. A slick, unsettling stranger buying up properties under cover for a major tobacco company but really out for himself. A Tibetan Buddhist lama from New Jersey who sounds like Tony Soprano when discoursing on the dharma who finds his disciple, a wry, reticently sexy earth mother wracked with concern for the wayward young man who is her son.

Ignorance Why ?

For the owner of an early hot rod, chopping the top is the first, and most important, body modification that they will perform. You only have to look at the Model As, Deuce Coupes or Chevy two-doors at any hot rod event to realize that nearly all the coupes, sedans, and even convertibles, are wearing their top two to four inches lower than they did when stock. Chopping a top is not only the most important and common body modification made by many rodders, it's also the one major body modification that can literally make or break the car. Do it right, and the end result is a car with a solid structure that looks just right. Do it wrong, and the result is often a car that never gets finished, or one that simply looks wrong. Author John Zechbauer, a second generation hot rod builder, learned the craft as a teenage from his father Carl - a craftsman who chopped over 400 tops during his life. The book includes step by step sequences of over 20 top chops, all done by either John and/or his father.
