When the civil rights movement intensifi ed in the South, circa 1954, white political leaders who believed in and practiced the ideology of “ white supremacy ” worked in concert to reverse the direction integration was heading in America. In 1970, some sixteen years out from the U.S. Supreme Court ’ s Brown V. Board of Education of Topeka decision, we were still trying to get bigots to obey the law of the land. In a letter dated August 13, 1971, then U.S. Senator Walter F. Mondale (later Vice President Mondale) wrote: Dear Mr. Ward: I have received your recent letter describing the explosive situation in the Yazoo City. I certainly share your concern that unless the discriminatory treatment of black students in the Yazoo City school system is eliminated, the opening of school in September may be a most serious occasion. I have referred your concern to both the Justice Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare requesting their investigation and corrective action. In The Principal of the Matter, Eugene “ Harry ” Ward unfurls the calculated practices of de jure and de facto segregation, separation of the races that was supposedly equal under the “ law ” and “ as a matter of fact. ”
