A Girl Made of Dust is a coming of age story set in the hills above Beirut. The location is very nicely evoked, and the encroaching war (though it is always present in the background) does not overpower the plot. The feeling of a young child observing the world is mostly very well done, and the story is strong enough to draw you in.

Summary and reviews of A Girl Made of Dust by Nathalie Abi ...

A Girl Made of Dust is a semi-autobiographical novel by Nathalie Abi-Ezzi who, like some of the characters in her story, moved to the safety of England in 1983 when Israel invaded Lebanon. She has written the novel from the perspective of an eight-year-old, but overcame my resistance to child narrators with a vivid story.

Girl Made Of Dust — Grants — Projects | Doha Film Institute

A Girl Made of Dust is a very moving story about a young girl in the midst of a war that she doesn't understand. Told from her perspective, she is generally more concerned with the personal problems in her own family - her father's withdrawal into himself because of something that is kept secret from her until late in the story, and the resulting tension between her parents and the ...

Some of the imagery would be shown in a very direct fashion, like our girl made of dust – who was a girl “covered in sand and dirt”. Or sometimes she’s more subtle about it, weaving together events with words that create an image in our mind.

Set in civil war-torn Lebanon in the early 1980s, A Girl Made of Dust is the story of Ruba Khouri, who lives in a Christian village outside Beirut with her family: Naji, her beloved older brother who collects shell and bullet casings and is fascinated by the fighter planes roaring overhead; her careworn mother, Aida, who tries to keep the household safe with marathon cleaning and baking sessions; Teta, her doting grandmother who dreams of death and relies upon a plastic figure of the Virgin ...

GAL Novelty: Review: A Girl Made of Dust by Nathalie Abi-Ezzi

A rich and beautiful novel set during the Israeli invasion of Lebanon in the early 1980s, and based on the author's personal experiences of the conflict. Eight-year-old Ruba lives in a village outside Beirut. From her family home, she can see the buildings shimmering on the horizon and the sea stretched out beside them.

Reader reviews of A Girl Made of Dust

A Girl Made of Dust is set in Lebanon in 1982 during the Israeli Invasion. I enjoyed this coming of age story because of its simultaneously naive and wise protagonist, Ruba, and because I know so little of this country and the invasion.
