A Little Princess is a children's novel by Frances Hodgson Burnett, first published as a book in 1905. It is an expanded version of the short story "Sara Crewe: or, What Happened at Miss Minchin's", which was serialized in St. Nicholas Magazine from December 1887, and published in book form in 1888. According to Burnett, after she composed the 1902 play A Little Un-fairy Princess based on that story, her publisher asked that she expand the story as a novel with "the things and people that had been left out before". The novel was published by Charles Scribner's Sons (also publisher of St. Nicholas) with illustrations by Ethel Franklin Betts and the full title A Little Princess: Being the Whole Story of Sara Crewe Now Being Told for the First Time.

A little princess is a children's novel by Frances Hodgson Burnett. In 1888, two years after the book Little Lord Fauntleroy, she brought in the youth magazine Saint Nicholas the serialized novel Sara Crewe: or, What Happened at Miss Minchin's Boarding School. After the success of the series, she published a novella in 1903 as A Little Princess. In 1905 it was followed by the conversion to an enhanced novel, A Little Princess: The story of Sara Crewe, in which now also appear the classmates Lottie and Ermengarde, the maid Becky and the rat Melchisedec. The anime adaptation on the novel called Princess Sara was produced by Nippon Animation in 1985. An American film adaptation was made in 1995 ran under the same tittle as the book. The film was critically acclaimed.

Sara Crewe is a young and imaginative girl who has been brought to Miss Minchin's boarding school in London by her doting father, Captain Crewe. Sara's father is wealthy and indulges her with every comfort and luxury, earning her the nickname "The Little Princess" at the school. Sara is known for her kindness and generosity toward others, and she quickly befriends the other girls at the school. However, Sara's life takes a tragic turn when her father's fortune is lost in a business venture, and he dies. Sara is left destitute and is forced to work as a servant at the school she once attended as a wealthy student. She faces mistreatment and cruelty from Miss Minchin and the other girls who were once her friends. Despite her harsh circumstances, Sara remains resilient and maintains her dignity. She finds solace in her vivid imagination and her belief in the power of storytelling. She often tells herself and other girls tales of adventure and magic to escape the grim reality of her situation. Sara's life takes another unexpected turn when she befriends her neighbor, Mr. Carrisford, who recognizes her from her father's stories about her. Together with Mr. Carrisford's servant, Ram Dass, they help Sara in a heartwarming and surprising way.
