A Void Georges Perec

Perec was a French writer and a member of Oulipo from 1969 to his death in 1982.

Though I have yet to read his other works (novels, play, poetry, and opera librettos, even), it is easy to see why Perec is considered a "literary experimentalist." A Void is a literary feat: it is, in short, a novel written without a single E in its 300 pages.

Georges Perec famously wrote a whole novel without using the letter 'e'. Now, in this playful short novel, brilliantly translated by David Bellos, Perec once again dispenses with the normal rules for literary composition, with similarly pyrotechnic results.

As easy as ABC: Georges Perec once wrote a whole novel ...

A Void is an unnerving but insanely compelling work, and one which is rather hard to compare with anything else. It does have some similarities with Perec's later classic Life A User's Manual, but it will never be as popular.

A Void - Wikipedia

Georges Perec Excerpt. From "A Void" (one of Haig's favourite passages) Noon rings out. A wasp, making an ominous sound, a sound akin to a klaxon or a tocsin, flits about. Augustus, who has had a bad night, sits up blinking and purblind.

5.0 out of 5 stars Georges Perec - A Void.

Reviewed in the United Kingdom on 12 November 2008. Remarkable! Though it is a more an intellectual exercise than an intelligible work of fiction (though, of course it is an intelligible work of fiction, otherwise the exercise would render itself pointless), a Void is delightful and delightfully ...

A mind-bending novel from the author of Life A User's Manual. A Void is a great linguistic adventure and a metaphysical whodunit, chock-full of plots and subplots, of trails in pursuit of trails, all of displays Georges Perec's virtuosity as a verbal magician. It is also an outrageous verbal stunt: a 300-page novel that never once employs the letter E.

A Void : Georges Perec : 9780099512165

The late Georges Perec was connected to this sort of school, and at least one intelligent English critic has thought that Perec wrote some of the most boring novels of the twentieth century. This book, however, is manifestly not one of them. Indeed it's a remarkable hoot, at times quite funny, and throughout consistently ingenious and clever. ...

A Void, the forthcoming translation by Gilbert Adair of Georges Perec's novel La Disparition (1968), boasts at least one extraordinary characteristic: in the entire course of its 280-odd pages,...

Georges Perec - Penguin Books

Perec is noted for his constrained writing. His 300-page novel La disparition (1969) is a lipogram, written with natural sentence structure and correct grammar, but using only words that do not contain the letter "e". It has been translated into English by Gilbert Adair under the title A Void (1994).

A Void, translated from the original French La Disparition (lit. "The Disappearance"), is a 300-page French lipogrammatic novel, written in 1969 by Georges Perec, entirely without using the letter e, following Oulipo constraints.
