The book is a securities. It puts together the law and regulation of public offering of corporate securities at one place, and studies it in a singular and coherent fashion, with an emphasis on the concepts and principles that are its foundations and building blocks. Moreover, it is written in a linear fashion, and not as a commentary of the statutory provisions, rules and regulations governing public offering of corporate securities. The book has a starting point, and each subsequent topic, section and chapter logically builds on the earlier analysis, leading to a coherent study of the law and regulation of public offering of corporate securities. However, care has been taken to write these topics, sections and chapters in a manner that these can also be read independently by someone who may wish to refer to a select issue. This volume examines and explains (i) the concept of public offering of securities; (ii) the legal setting in which public offering of securities is undertaken and the mechanics of such transactions; (iii) potential liability of different parties such as issuer company, its promoters and directors, and securities market intermediaries involved in public offering of securities; and (iv) remedies that are available to investors.

The production of the Handbook on Securities Statistics (the Handbook) is a joint undertaking by the Bank for International Settlements (BIS), the European Central Bank (ECB) and the International Monetary Fund (IMF). They have specific interests and expertise in the area of securities statistics and the WGSD ' s are the core members of the Working Group on Securities Databases (WGSD). In 2007, the WGSD—originally established by the IMF in 1999—was reconvened in response to various international initiatives and recommendations to improve information on securities markets. The WGSD is chaired by the ECB and includes the BIS, the IMF and the World Bank. Selected experts from national central banks, who participated actively in the various international groups that identified the need to improve data on securities markets, were also invited to contribute to some of the WGSD ' s deliberations. In mid-2008, the WGSD agreed to sponsor the development of a handbook on securities statistics. In November 2009, the report entitled “ The Financial Crisis and Information Gaps ” , which was prepared by the Financial Stability Board (FSB) Secretariat and IMF staff at the request of the Group of Twenty (G-20) finance ministers and central bank governors, endorsed the development of the Handbook, as well as the gradual implementation of improved statistics on issuance and holdings of securities at the national and international level. The BIS ' s compilation of data on debt securities plays an important role in this respect. The Handbook sponsors responded to the demand from various international groups for the development of methodological standards for securities statistics and released the Handbook in three parts. Part 1 on debt securities issues was published in May 2009, and Part 2 on debt securities holdings in September 2010. Part 3 of the Handbook on equity securities statistics was published in November 2012. The methodology described in all three parts was based on the System of National Accounts 2008 (2008 SNA) and the sixth edition of the Balance of Payments and International Investment Position Manual (BPM6). The three parts also went slightly beyond the confines of these standards by providing guidance and additional information on, for example, the main features of securities, special and borderline cases, and breakdowns of issues and holdings of securities by counterparty. Special attention was also paid to specific operations such as mergers and acquisitions, restructuring, privatization and nationalization, and transactions between general government and public corporations. From the beginning, the intention was to combine the three parts into one volume, thereby eliminating any overlap and repetitions between the parts. The Handbook 's conceptual framework is complemented by a set of tables for presenting securities data both at an aggregated level and broken down by various features. This should allow sufficient flexibility in the presentation of data on issuance and holdings of securities, in line with developments in securities markets and financing. The Handbook is the first publication of its kind to focus exclusively on securities statistics. Recent turmoil in global financial markets has confirmed the importance of timely, relevant, coherent, and internationally comparable data on securities, from the perspective of monetary policy, fiscal policy, and financial stability analysis. This Handbook provides a conceptual framework for the compilation and presentation of statistics on different types. Comprehensive Accountancy XII Springer The examining team reviewed F4 Study Text covers all the relevant ACCA F4 syllabus topics. It explores key legal issues relevant to businesses, and demonstrates how they are put in to practice. Detailed examples throughout the text will help build your understanding and reinforce learning.

This is the Third Edition of this book featuring translation into English of the two key Russian Statutes governing Russian companies, up-to-date as at 10 April 2013: - Federal Law of the Russian Federation No 208-FZ of 26 December 1995 "On Companies Limited by Shares" ("Companies Act 1995"); and - Federal Law of the Russian Federation No 14-FZ of 8 February 1998 "On Limited Liability Companies" ("Companies Act 1998") These two statutes govern the most popular forms of commercial legal entities in Russia. The Companies Act

1995 governs companies limited by shares ("aktsionerniye obshchestva", or "OAO" and "ZAO") which are the preferred corporate form for medium and large size Russian public and private businesses and joint ventures in Russia due to a higher degree of regulation and protection of shareholders. Companies Act 1998 governs limited liability companies ("obshchestva s ogranichennoy otvetstvennostyu", or "OOO") which are preferred by small businesses and wholly owned subsidiaries due to the lesser degree of regulation. Since the Second Edition had gone into print in 2010, both the Companies Act 1995 and the Companies Act 1998 have undergone numerous material amendments. The amendments to the Companies Act 1995 concern, in particular: - the lifespan of the founding agreement; - capital increase by allotment of additional shares ; - distribution of the dividend; - disclosure by nominee shareholders of the identity of beneficiaries - convertible preference shares and the voting rights; - issue and redemption of bonds ; - net asset value of the company; - pricing of additional shares allotted by subscription; - the pre-emption right on allotment ; - listing and delisting of shares and convertible issuable securities; - notice of general meeting of shareholders; - the competence of the board of directors (supervisory board); - buy-out of shares by the company on demand of a shareholder; - right of recourse against the valuers; - exceptions from major transactions and interested transactions; - exceptions from the voluntary offer on acquisition of more than 30 per cent of shares in a public company; - exceptions from the obligation to make a compulsory offer to acquire shares of a public company and other issuable securities convertible into shares of public company; - exemption from the obligation to disclose information required by legislation governing securities; The amendments to the Companies Act 1998 concern, in particular: - reduction of capital; - electronic application to register transfer of participatory interests; - imposition of a penalty on a participatory interest; - distribution of profit; - the reserves and the net asset value of the company; - exceptions from interested transactions; and - exceptions from major transactions.
