Gay Canada, comprising a main volume published in 2001 and this present Supplement, provides a bibliographic record of major print and filmed works relating to Canadian gay and lesbian life from 1984-2000, with substantial coverage also for 2001 and early 2002. Together, these two volumes are an essential source for libraries, students of sexual diversity studies and archivists. Gay Canada is an accessible and serious research tool, a collection of important and fascinating information. This Supplement, with emphasis particularly but not exclusively on items of the late 1990s through 2002, should be used in conjunction with the main volume of Gay Canada. The Supplement incorporates results of a detailed search of the National Library of Canada's online union catalogue, AMICUS. It reflects a re-examination of sources checked earlier in order to retrieve works indexed too late for inclusion in the first edition. An errata sheet for the small number of errors uncovered in the main volume is also attached. The user should note that the combined contents of the first edition main volume, this Supplement, and the errata sheet in the Supplement are equivalent to the contents of the revised and expanded edition of Gay Canada, published by this press in 2002.

A strange carnival brings terror to the population of a small midwestern town

Aseptolin Harper Collins

It turned up in a North Dakota wheat field: a triangle, like a shark's fin, sticking up from the black loam. Tom Lasker did what any farmer would have done. He dug it up. And discovered a boat, made of a fiberglass-like material with an utterly impossible atomic number. What it was doing buried under a dozen feet of prairie soil two thousand miles from any ocean, no one knew. True, Tom Lasker's wheat field had once been on the shoreline of a great inland sea, but that was a long time ago -- ten thousand years ago. A return to science fiction on a grand scale, reminiscent of the best of Heinlein, Simak, and Clarke, Ancient Shores is the most ambitious and exciting SF triumph of the decade, a bold speculative adventure that does not shrink from the big questions -- and the big answers.

The summer of '28 was a vintage season for a growing boy. A summer of green apple trees, mowed lawns, and new sneakers. Of half-burnt firecrackers, of gathering dandelions, of Grandma's belly-busting dinner. It was a summer of sorrows and marvels and gold-fuzzed bees. A magical, timeless summer in the life of a twelve-year-old boy named Douglas Spaulding—remembered forever by the incomparable Ray Bradbury. The only god living in Green Town, Illinois, that Douglas Spaulding knew of. The facts about John Huff, aged twelve, are simple and soon stated. • He could pathfind more trails than any Choctaw or Cherokee since time began. • Could leap from the sky like a chimpanzee from a vine. • Could live underwater two minutes and slide fifty yards downstream. • Could hit baseballs into apple trees, knocking down harvests. • Could jump six-foot orchard walls. • Ran laughing. • Sat easy. • Was not a bully. • Was kind. • Knew the words to all the cowboy songs and would teach you if you asked. • Knew the names of all the wild flowers and when the moon would rise or set and when the tides came in or out. He was, in fact, the only god living in the whole of Green Town, Illinois, during the twentieth century that Douglas Spaulding knew of. "[Ray] Bradbury is an authentic
