*Due to the coronavirus, predicted delivery periods for paperbacks are showing as being heavily delayed. In my experience this delay does not result as being as long as stated upon ordering and is often brought forward. Alternatively there is an E-book version of this book available for immediate download. I am a fully qualified Advanced Skills Teacher primary school teacher, with over 15 years experience. In my experience, the importance of reading should never be underestimated. Whilst many children can mechanically read texts competently, the understanding and inference of what they are reading is paramount. It is also fundamental that children enjoy the texts they are reading, as this immersion often leads to greater understanding of the texts they encounter. Furthermore, as reading and writing are concurrently linked, one complements the other. This book is designed to offer parents and teachers a valuable resource to support their child's learning. It contains 13 comprehensions about interesting wild animals, all beautifully formatted in full-colour and illustrated with some spectacular photographs of animals. Each text or 'fact-sheet' is 2 pages long with a set of 10 questions to check your child's understanding of the text. There is also often an additional, more open ended, creative task to complete, if required. How to use this book Find a quiet, comfortable place to work, away from distractions. The average attention span of an 8 year old child is around 20 minutes, therefore tackle one extract at a time. It is important that your child reads the extract and questions carefully. You may wish your child to complete the comprehension independently, if this is the case discuss any questions they found difficult at the end of the session and attempt to explain any answers they found difficult. Alternatively you may want to complete the tasks together, giving help with reading the extracts and encouraging your child to check their own answers as they complete each activity. Give plenty of praise and encouragement for completion of the activity.
