We ' re compelled to show faith in explanations that we really don ' t believe in—the origins of our being, the nature and existence of God, are we alone in the universe? Less weighty issues as well as stuff we ' d just like to know—who really shot Kennedy? What happened to Jimmy Hoffa? You think about it and know there really are answers to all of it, but you don ' t have access to them. I ' ve got those answers and, more importantly, proof for all of it. Some of it you can hold in your hand. You follow the news, you know this place is going to blow. I ' m here to try and stop it. Religion, race, nationalism . . . We all come from the same place. But the world has suffered through too many charlatans and false prophets. I ' m going to use these proofs to get you savages to settle down." Andrew has recruited renowned attorney, author, and sports agent Aron Samuelson to help him get the word out. Aron, in the throes of a midlife crisis, is looking for the next " big thing " in his life. As they say, be careful what you wish for.

In this groundbreaking analysis of personality type, bestselling author of Better Than Before and The Happiness Project Gretchen Rubin reveals the one simple question that will transform what you do at home, at work, and in life. During her multibook investigation into understanding human nature, Gretchen Rubin realized that by asking the seemingly dry question "How do I respond to expectations?" we gain explosive self-knowledge. She discovered that based on their answer, people fit into Four Tendencies: Upholders, Questioners, Obligers, and Rebels. Our Tendency shapes every aspect of our behavior, so using this framework allows us to make better decisions, meet deadlines, suffer less stress, and engage more effectively. The System of Objects is a tour de force—a theoretical letter-in-a-bottle tossed into the ocean in 1968, which brilliantly communicates to us all the live ideas of the day. Pressing Freudian and Saussurean categories into the service of a basically Marxist perspective, The System of Objects offers a cultural critique of the commodity in consumer society. Baudrillard classifies the everyday objects of the " new technical order " as functional, nonfunctional and metafunctional. He contrasts " modern " and " traditional " functional objects, subjecting home furnishing and interior design to a celebrated semiological analysis. His treatment of nonfunctional or " marginal " objects focuses on antiques and the psychology of collecting, while the metafunctional category extends to the useless, the aberrant and even the " schizofunctional. " Finally, Baudrillard deals at length with the implications of credit and advertising for the commodification of everyday life. The System of Objects is a tour de force of the materialist semiotics of the early Baudrillard, who emerges in retrospect as something of a lightning rod for all the live ideas of the day: Bataille ' s political economy of " expenditure " and Mauss ' s theory of the gift; Reisman ' s lonely crowd and the " technological society " of Jacques Ellul; the structuralism of Roland Barthes in The System of Fashion; Henri Lefebvre ' s work on the social construction of space; and last, but not least, Guy Debord ' s situationist critique of the spectacle.

As most couples attest, when they met it was "love at first spark" as if something in their souls' memories was ignited. But what is this mystery that brings soul mates together from as far away as opposite ends of the earth? Drawing from the legacy of Jesus and Mary Magdalene, mythology, soul mate dreams and depth psychology, and filled with the most fascinating stories of how soul mates met, Divine Complement examines the divine territory of a spirit-to-spirit connection that ultimately draws twin souls together. A surprising legacy emerges as we are given a more psychological look at the faces of Jesus and Mary Magdalene as twin souls and Sacred Bride and Bridegroom. The book goes on to answer, for instance: Why is it that 88 % of singles believe there is one person in the world tailored for them; why opposites attract; how to recognize your authentic soul mate; and why is it that perfect matches often fail.

An exploration of our fall from the pinnacle of human evolution 200,000 years ago and how we can begin our return • Explores recent neurological and psychological research on the brain and the role of plant biochemistry in human brain expansion • Explains how humanity ' s prehistoric diet change led to a neurodegenerative condition characterized by aggression and a fearful perception of the world • Outlines a strategy of raw foods, tantric sexuality, shamanic practices, and entheogens to reverse our mental degeneration and restore our advanced abilities Over a period of a million years the human brain expanded at an increasingly rapid rate, and then, 200,000 years ago, the expansion abruptly stopped. Modern science has overlooked this in order to maintain that we are at the pinnacle of our evolution. However, the halt in brain expansion explains not only recently uncovered anomalies within the human brain but also the global traditions of an earthly paradise lost and of humanity ' s degeneration from our original state of perpetual wonder and joy. Drawing on more than 20 years of research, authors Tony Wright and Graham Gynn explore how our modern brains are performing far below their potential and how we can unlock our higher abilities and return to the euphoria of Eden. They explain how for millions of years early forest-dwelling humans were primarily consuming the hormone-rich sex organs of plants--fruit--each containing a highly complex biochemical cocktail evolved to influence DNA transcription, rapid brain development, and elevated neural and pineal gland activity. Citing recent neurological and psychological studies, the authors explain how the loss of our symbiotic fruit-based diet led to a progressive neurodegenerative condition characterized by aggressive behaviors, a fearful perception of the world, and the suppression of higher artistic, mathematical, and spiritual abilities. The authors show how many shamanic and spiritual traditions were developed to counteract our decline. They outline a strategy of raw foods, tantric sexuality, shamanic practices, and entheogen use to reverse our degeneration, restore our connection with the plant world, and regain the bliss and peace of the brain of Eden.
