Ariana Santino is a young violin prodigy when she is first haunted by frightening dreams of a woman living in the nineteenth century. When she turns eighteen, the dreams stop, leading her to believe they are finally over. Seven years later, after she lands a full-time job with the Reno Philharmonic, Ariana's life is blissfully normal until she experiences a vision in the middle of a concert. Alarmed, she begins a search to discover the story behind the woman in her dreams. But as her sanity slowly starts to unravel, a desperate Ariana turns to her former violin teacher, Hector Arguello, for answers. When she learns there is another life, another violinist, tied to her own, Ariana is led on a gripping journey from the casinos of Reno to the jungles of the Yucatan where she learns the past has a direct link to the present and a mystery deeper than anything she could have ever imagined. In this gripping tale, a violin prodigy embarks on a dangerous quest to find the enigmatic woman who haunts her dreams—a quest that leads her to a startling truth.

A World of Many explores the world-making efforts of Tzotzil Maya children from two different localities within the municipality of Chenalh ó , Chiapas. The research demonstrates children ' s agency in creating their worlds, while also investigating the role played by the surrounding social and physical environment. Different experiences with schooling, parenting, goals and values, but also with climate change, water scarcity, as well as racism and settler colonialism form part of the reason children create their emerging worlds. These worlds are not make believe or anything less than the ontological products of their parents. Instead, Norbert Ross argues that by creating different worlds, the children ultimately fashion themselves into different human beings - quite literally being different in the world. A World of Many combines experimental research from the cognitive sciences with critical theory, exploring children 's agency in devising their own ontologies. Rather than treating children as somewhat incomplete humans, it understands children as tinkerers and thinkers, makers of their worlds amidst complex relations. It regards being as a constant ontological production, where life and living constitutes activism. Using experimental paradigms, the book shows that children locate themselves differently in these emerging worlds they create, becoming different human beings in the process.
