A homogeneous mixture has the same uniform appearance and composition throughout. Many homogeneous mixtures are commonly referred to as solutions. A heterogeneous mixture consists of visibly different substances or phases. Solutions have particles which are the size of atoms or molecules - too small to be seen.

A heterogeneous mixture is a mixture in which the components of the mixture are not uniform or have localized regions with different properties. Different samples from the mixture are not identical to each other.

A homogeneous mixture has the same proportions of its components throughout any given sample and is also referred to as a solution. Conversely, a heterogeneous mixture has components of which proportions vary throughout the sample. "Homogeneous" and "heterogeneous" are not absolute terms, but are dependent on context and the size of the sample.
