But 'the law' can mean a lot of things, from general ideas about jurisprudence all the way down to a written ordinance. And while the words 'law' and 'regulation' are often used interchangeably, they can refer to very distinct things. Although the effect of laws and regulations can often be the same, it is important to understand how they are different.

Laws are rules that are enacted by governing body, while regulation is the process of monitoring and enforcing the rules. Laws are actually rules and guidelines that are set up by the social institutions to govern behavior. These laws are made by government officials that in some countries are elected by the public to represent their views.
