I have been a fan of the TV show "Baa Baa Black Sheep" since it first appeared back in 1976, I believe. I found this book more than riveting, opening up the man, Greg "Pappy" Boyington, in a way the show that I loved never did. Every twist & turn his life took made him the man he was.

Baa Black Sheep Gregory Boyington

It is more an autobiography than a narration about the Black Sheep squadron. However, I rate it five stars because it delivers what I was looking for, an excellent narration of Boyington's internment in a Japanese internment camp. Reading the book, it appears Boyington wrote it himself without the help of a ghost writer or editor, and it shows.

Baa Baa Black Sheep is an American period military dramatelevision series that aired on NBC from September 23, 1976 until April 6, 1978. Its premise was based on the experiences of United States Marine Corps aviator Greg Boyington and his World War II "Black Sheep Squadron". The series was created and produced by Stephen J. Cannell. The opening credits read: "In World War II, Marine Corps Major Greg 'Pappy' Boyington commanded a squadron of fighter pilots. They were a collection of misfits and s
