Sarah Banet-Weiser complicates the standard feminist take on beauty pageants in this intriguing look at a hotly contested but enduringly popular American ritual. She focuses on the Miss America pageant in particular, considering its claim to be an accurate representation of the diversity of contemporary American women. Exploring the cultural constructions and legitimations that go on during the long process of the pageant, Banet-Weiser depicts the beauty pageant stage as a place where concerns about national identity, cultural hopes and desires, and anxieties about race and gender are crystallized and condensed. The beauty pageant, she convincingly demonstrates, is a profoundly political arena deserving of serious study. Drawing on cultural criticism, ethnographic research, and interviews with pageant participants and officials, The Most Beautiful Girl in the World illustrates how contestants invent and reinvent themselves while articulating the female body as a national body. Banet-Weiser finds that most pageants are characterized by the ambivalence of contemporary "liberal" feminism, which encourages individual achievement, self-determination, and civic responsibility, while simultaneously promoting very conventional notions of beauty. The book explores the many different aspects of the Miss America pageant, including the swimsuit, the interview, and the talent competitions. It also takes a closer look at some extraordinary Miss Americas, such as Bess Myerson, the first Jewish Miss America; Vanessa Williams, the first African American Miss America; and Heather Whitestone, the first Miss America with a disability.

Fault Line Simon and Schuster While women are generally perceived to be less competitive than men, women compete in many ways and in a variety of situations. Women try to make themselves look more attractive to draw the attention of a desirable mate. They will use gossip as a form of informational warfare to influence reputations. They compete as mothers to gain access to resources that directly influence the health of their children. They use selfies posted on social media to manipulate others' perceptions. Women compete all of their lives: in the womb, through adolescence and adulthood, and into their elder years. The topic of women's competition has gained significant momentum over the years. Edited by Maryanne L. Fisher, The Oxford Handbook of Women and Competition provides readers with direct evidence of this growth and is one of the first scholarly volumes to focus specifically on this topic. Fisher and her team of contributors offer a definitive worldview of the current state of knowledge regarding competition among women today. Many of the chapters are grounded within an evolutionary framework, allowing for authors to investigate the adaptive nature of women's competitive behaviors, motivations, and cognition. Other chapters rely on alternative frameworks, with contributors also asserting that socio-cultural forces are the culprit shaping women's competitive drives.

Additionally, several contributors focus their attention on issues faced by adolescent girls, and explore the developmental trajectories for young women through adulthood. Designed to serve as a source of inspiration for future research and direction, The Oxford Handbook of Women and Competition is a stand-out scholarly text focusing on the many competitive forces driving women today.

Beauty around the World: A Cultural Encyclopedia Oxford University Press

From an author praised for writing "delicious social history" (Dwight Garner, The New York Times) comes a lively account of memorable Miss America contestants, protests, and scandals—and how the pageant, nearing its one hundredth anniversary, serves as an unintended indicator of feminist progress. Looking for Miss America is a fast-paced narrative history of a curious and contradictory institution. From its start in 1921 as an Atlantic City tourist draw to its current incarnation as a scholarship competition, the pageant has indexed women's status during periods of social change—the post-suffrage 1920s, the Eisenhower 1950s, the #MeToo era. This ever-changing institution has been shaped by war, evangelism, the rise of television and reality TV, and, significantly, by contestants who confounded expectations. Spotlighting individuals, from Yolande Betbeze, whose refusal to pose in swimsuits led an angry sponsor to launch the rival Miss USA contest, to the first black winner, Vanessa Williams, who received death threats and was protected by sharpshooters in her hometown parade, Margot Mifflin shows how women made hard bargains even as they used the pageant for economic advancement. The pageant's history includes, crucially, those it excluded; the notorious Rule Seven, which required contestants to be "of the white race," was retired in the 1950s, but no women of color were crowned until the 1980s. In rigorously researched, vibrant chapters that unpack each decade of the pageant, Looking for

Miss America examines the heady blend of capitalism, patriotism, class anxiety, and cultural mythology that has fueled this American ritual.

Filipino Americans are one of the three largest Asian American groups in the United States and the second largest immigrant population in the country. Yet within the field of Asian American Studies, Filipino American history and culture have received comparatively less attention than have other ethnic groups. Over the past twenty years, however, Filipino American scholars across various disciplines have published numerous books and research articles, as a way of addressing their unique concerns and experiences as an ethnic group. The SAGE Encyclopedia of Filipina/x/o American Studies, the first on the topic of Filipino American Studies, offers a comprehensive survey of an emerging field, focusing on the Filipino diaspora in the United States as well as highlighting issues facing immigrant groups in general. It covers a broad range of topics and disciplines including activism and education, arts and humanities, health, history and historical figures, immigration, psychology, regional trends, and sociology and social issues. The Ultimate Beauty Pageant Notebook Cambridge Scholars Publishing Modern beauty contests were invented by P.T. Barnum in the United States, but in the 20th century pageants and contests have spread across the entire world from Nepal to Tierra Del Fuego. Why are women (and sometimes men in drag) parading on stage such a universally appealing spectacle, attracting an audience in the billions? This book is the first global comparison of pageants from different parts of the world, at the ways each contest is both intensely local and unique, and simultaneously global and remarkable repetitive. The authors use the latest tools of feminist, ethnographic, and literary scholarship to unpack and interpret one of the greatest and most universal spectacles of modern times.

Through micro-analysis of language use, this book chronicles young women's pathways to becoming a Tanzanian beauty queen, offering an original perspective on the intersection of language with globalization, nationalism, and inequality in urban East Africa. This compelling linguistic ethnography considers the real-life effects, both on- and off-stage, of language policy, education, and gender dynamics for the women competing in the pageants. While highlighting many contestants' struggles for escape from poverty and patriarchy, the book also emphasizes their creative strategies - linguistic and otherwise - for bettering their lives and shows how people living in a global economic periphery take part in, and sometimes feel left out of, the wider multilingual contexts, English is often treated as an entity that is separable from its linguistic environment. It is often the case, however, that multilinguals use English in hybrid and transcultural ways. This book explores how multilingual East Africans make use of English as a local resource in their everyday practices by examining a range of domains, including workplace conversation, beauty pageants, hip hop and advertising. Drawing on the Bakhtinian concept of multivocality, the author uses discourse analysis and ethnographic approaches to demonstrate the range of linguistic and cultural hybridity found across these domains, and to consider the constraints on hybridity in each context. By focusing on the cultural and linguistic bricolage in which English is often found, the book illustrates how multilinguals respond to the tension between local identification and dominant conceptualizations of English as a language for global communication.

This book represents a follow-up to 2014's The Age of Asian Migration: Continuity, Diversity, and Susceptibility Volume 1. Both volumes are the result of the conference on Asian Migration and Diasporas organised by the Southeast Asia Research Centre and held at the City University of Hong Kong in 2013. Despite numerous studies on Asian migration issues having been conducted over the past few decades, no comprehensive account of Asian migrations, especially those taking place since the end of the Second World War exists. While the first volume provided a discussion of a wide spectrum of topics concerning Asian migration - from historical perspectives to updated trends - this volume is organised around three major themes, namely "Women and Migration", "Refugee and Borderland Migration", and "Remittances and Migration Economics". The book contains new migration stories that provide fresh insights into human movements, and enhances academic discussions of migration through case studies from Asia.

A Beginners Guide to Beauty Pageant

Routledge

Beauty Pageants for Little Girls Is Your Daughter Exceptionally Pretty? Does She Have an Outgoing Personality? Have You Ever Thought About Entering Her in a Pageant? Discover the World of Pageantry! If you answered yes to any of those questions above you obviously have a beautiful daughter. If you answered yes you obviously want to learn more about entering her into a beauty pageant. Beauty Pageants for young women have been around for many years. Miss America, Miss Universe and so on. There are many reasons why these women choose to participate. Each candidate has their own motivation. Sometimes they join for the fame, fortunate and travel. Others participate in hopes of attaining scholastic rewards such as scholarships or monetary rewards that will allow them to pursue higher education. The latter two are the most often reasons given when parents elect to enroll their young girls in local and regional pageants. The primary reason is money. If they can earn enough money to invest in further pageants they hold out hope that they can progress their daughter through the ranks to larger, more lucrative pageants as they advance in age. There is much to learn when choosing to enter the world of beauty pageantry. It isn't all glowing and rosy. Not every child is a candidate and not every pageant is appropriate. In fact, it can be downright stressful. Unfortunately, beauty pageants for little girls are infiltrated with instances of fraud. You must be very careful when selecting which events to participate in. It seems that every avenue of life is fraught with potential ugliness. It's particularly unsavory when it's embedded into activities that revolve around children. Promoters have been known to schedule pageants selling packages for entry and other benefits then failing to follow through. In some cases they are never seen again after taking your money. It's important that you learn everything you need to know before you sign anything pay any money. Additionally, there is other information that you need to become familiar with before entering the world of pageantry for your little girl. Don't know where to begin? "Beauty Pageants for Little Girls" teaches you everything you need to know to school yourself in the world of pageantry. Crammed into the digital pages is information on how to find pageants in your local area. You can also learn how to start your own if you do not have a local venue. Legitimate pageants will interview potential candidates. Discover what the normal interview is all about and what the interviewer is looking for. Where to find the proper dresses and how to style the entrants hair are other topics you will get the answers to in "Beauty Pageants for Little Girls." Another possibility to consider is creating a pageant video. Some parents have found that submitting a video of their child containing an overview of her talent and giving her a small speaking role helps to boost their child into the top contenders. Other parents have found that having a photographic portfolio is important in promoting your child. Professional photography is not cheap but it does add to the validity of your entry. Many have found that participating in beauty pageants is also a vehicle to launch their child into a modeling career. We all tend to think of modeling as string bean women that grace the cover of magazines. That isn't always true. Stop and ponder for a moment just how often you are confronted with a model, whether it's a child or an adult. Television commercials, magazine commercials, posters and more all use models. The list is endless. We could go on and on about the wealth of information contained in "Beauty Pageants for Little Girls" but the best course of action is to have your own copy. You can do that easily and it's guaranteed. If you are seriously interested in pursuing this for your child, get your copy now. We take all the risk.
