When Jewish Holocaust survivors Eidel and Dovid Levi arrive in the United States, they believe that their struggles are finally over. Both have suffered greatly under the Nazi reign and are ready to leave the past behind. They arrive in this new and different land filled with optimism for their future.

However, acclimating into a new way of life can be challenging for immigrants. And, not only are they immigrants but they are Jewish. Although Jews are not being murdered in the United States, as they were under Hitler in Europe, the Levi's will learn that America is not without anti-Semitism. Still, they go forth, with unfathomable courage. In New Life, New Land, this young couple will face the trials and tribulations of becoming Americans and building a home for themselves and their children that will follow them.

It's 1981 and Shelby Sloane gets a canary yellow Mustang convertible as a graduation present. She plans to drive cross country to find her mother who left her many years earlier. Her childhood friend, Gina, desperate to reunite with her boyfriend in Bakersfield, has convinced Shelby to bring her along. When the girls pick up a mysterious hitchhiker named Candy Cane, their casual summer adventure quickly turns into a matter of life and death. This desperate stranger, streetwise beyond her years, is on the run from a past darker than anything the two ordinary girls have ever known. As Candy draws Shelby and Gina into her terrifying world, one thing is certain: if the three friends survive their perilous ride, their lives will never be the same again.

Frank Bascombe has a younger girlfriend and a job as a sportswriter. To many men of his age, thirty-eight, this would be a cause for optimism, yet Frank feels the pull of his inner despair and especially of his recent losses - his preferred career has ended, his wife has divorced him, and a tragic accident took his elder son. In the course of this Easter weekend, Frank will lose all the remnants of his familiar life, though he will emerge heroic with spirits soaring. This is a magnificent novel that propelled Richard Ford into the first rank of American writers.

BETWEEN WHAT THEY CANNOT HAVE AND WHAT THEY CANNOT LIVE WITHOUT. It is 1929. The world is about to change. Finn Evans is a successful Boston banker harboring a secret that threatens to unravel his carefully constructed idyllic life. Isabelle Lazar, a young Ukrainian farmer, endures unspeakable hardships in her homeland as she fights to save her family from the Soviet Union's iron grip. Barely escaping the Terror-Famine, she washes up alone on America's distant shores. Fate throws Finn and Isabelle together just as the stock market crash causes a devastating collapse of his world. Amid the Great Depression and the trials of their new lives, an undeniable connection grows between them that they both must hide. As their intertwined destinies hang in the balance, they discover that even those who have lost everything still have something left to lose. Light at Lavelle is the breathtaking epic love story from the worldwide bestselling author of Tully and The Bronze Horseman. Paullina Simons weaves an unforgettable tapestry of love, hope, and fate, showing us that sometimes the greatest battles are fought within our own hearts.

America, prima met à del Novecento. Tra strade infiammate dagli operai in rivolta e l'eco della Rivoluzione russa che promette la libertà dall'oppressione del capitalismo, Gina e Harry rincorrono il loro amore, che sembra non avere futuro. Troppo diversi i loro mondi, troppo lontane le loro aspettative: lei, immigrata dalla Sicilia quando era ancora una ragazzina, è tutta concretezza e istinto; lui, rampollo di una facoltosa famiglia con cui ha tagliato i ponti, è un sognatore infervorato dall'utopia comunista. Mentre Gina lavora fra la sala rammendi di uno stabilimento tessile e le pulizie a casa di gente facoltosa, Harry inneggia alla lotta del proletariato dal palco di un comizio e sostiene la propaganda scrivendo per giornali che non lo pagano un centesimo. Gina vorrebbe la rivoluzione del pane, una vita tranquilla e un figlio. Harry è pronto a sacrificare tutto per un ideale più alto delle piccolezze del quotidiano. Quando il radicalismo di Harry lo fa finire in carcere con il rischio di restarci per dieci anni, Gina ha solo una possibilità per salvare suo marito: chiedere aiuto al padre di lui, Herman Barrington, ricco industriale che è l'incarnazione stessa del capitalismo. È in quel momento che Herman offre alla giovane coppia il sogno di una nuova vita in Florida, a Bellagrand, in una villa bianca come la sabbia e l'innocenza. Sembra la promessa del paradiso, e forse lo è. Basterebbe rinunciare alla rivoluzione e scegliere l'amore... ma quale? Quello romantico, così forte da scalare una montagna di fango? O quello per la politica, che minaccia di far crollare tutto? Dopo Figli della libertà, prequel della fortunata trilogia del Cavaliere d'inverno, Paullina Simons racconta un nuovo capitolo delle vite di Gina Attaviano e Harry Barrington, consegnandoci un romanzo che vibra di passioni e ideali.

A heartbreaking tale of love, loss and one nearly perfect summer -- perfect for fans of The Fault In Our Stars and Love, Simon. Seventeen-year-old Katie Price has a rare disease that makes exposure to even the smallest amount of sunlight deadly. Confined to her house during the day, her company is limited to her widowed father and her best (okay, only) friend. It isn't until after nightfall that Katie's world opens up, when she takes her guitar to the local train station and plays for the people coming and going. Charlie Reed is a former all-star athlete at a crossroads in his life - and the boy Katie has secretly admired from afar for years. When he happens upon her playing guitar one night, fate intervenes and the two embark on a star-crossed romance. As they challenge each other to chase their dreams and fall for each other under the summer night sky, Katie and Charlie form a bond strong enough to change them -- and everyone around them -- forever.

"In 1998, Russian-born Paullina Simons returned with her father to her home country for the first time in twenty-five years to research her fourth novel, tentatively titled The Bronze Horseman. This brief trip became a remarkable walk through a land where time had stood still. Paullina found family, old friends and a landscape still scarred by World War II and seventy years of Communist rule. She also found extravagant hospitality, abundant food, and spectacular white nights. These six days in Leningrad changed Paullina's life forever."--

A fae prince. An outcast maiden. A match bound by fate. When outcast cobbler Rhianne braves the enchanted wood to find her fated love, absolutely everything that could go wrong does. The Matchweaver witch's magical loom reveals Rhianne is fated for the most powerful fae prince in history. Sounds great to Rhianne, but the Matchweaver has big plans for the prince, and they don't involve a lowly cobbler. The Matchweaver rages at the match, and her fit angers the ancients who crafted it. The ancients present a magical wand to Rhianne, setting the young woman on the path to raise a new Matchweaver. The Matchweaver sets a deadly darkness to spread across the kingdom, and Rhianne has days to raise the new Matchweaver or everyone in Lore will die. Although horrified at the darkness unspooling across the land, Prince Werian is rather delighted at the turn of events. He was meant for adventure such as this and doesn't mind dodging dangerous spells. What he isn't prepared for is the sacrifice he'll have to make to save the kingdom. This quest isn't what Rhianne and Werian believed it to be, and if they don't figure out how to rescue themselves and Lore, it won't only be a legendary love lost, the entire kingdom will disappear into the void.
