How Cats and Other Animals See at Night Brava

This book is based upon life experiences, through ups and downs of any and every situation, through every relationship, through all different life occasions and what they have to offer. Whether it be a holiday or just a normal average day or night. These times of experiences are very detailed and described through song and poetry as one in which I like to call and proclaim as soetry. Song and poetry are nearly the same thing. The only difference is adding music to the words of either to create a poetic song that tells us all a story of an event in life 's circumstances through what has taken place. Music, song, and poetry has always been part of my life and I believe has been passed down from generation to generation throughout my family unto myself for me to be able to create and present something as to the world today through the book that you 're reading. Everything that we go through and experience in life is meant to be. Some events are great, others not so much. We always learn life 's lessons through the failures that we come across. Although sometimes not so pleasant, we all must experience these not-so-pleasant events in life to learn from them to get to where we are, in what I like to call the Growing and Going Process, into the direction of learning from them. And if somehow we don 't, the lesson of life will repeat itself until we do learn so we can make it further in life to have great accomplishments. We all have a future, a purpose, and a plan, whether we see it or choose to accept it or not.

You Don't Belong Here Penguin

The long-buried story of three extraordinary female journalists who permanently shattered the barriers to women covering war Kate Webb, an Australian iconoclast, Catherine Leroy, a French daredevil photographer, and Frances FitzGerald, a blue-blood American intellectual, arrived in Vietnam with starkly different life experiences but one shared purpose: to report on the most consequential story of the decade. At a time when women were considered unfit to be foreign reporters, Frankie, Catherine and Kate challenged the rules imposed on them by the military, ignored the belittlement of their male peers, and ultimately altered the craft of war reportage for generations. In You Don't Belong Here, Elizabeth Becker uses these women's work and lives to illuminate the Vietnam War from the 1965 American buildup, the expansion into Cambodia, and the American defeat and its aftermath. Arriving herself in the last years of the war, Becker writes as a historian and a witness of the times. What emerges is an unforgettable story of three journalists forging their place in a land of men, often at great personal sacrifice. Deeply reported and filled with personal letters, interviews, and profound insight, You Don't Belong Here fills a void in the history of women and of war. 'A riveting read with much to say about the nature of war and the different ways men and women correspondents cover it. Frank, fast-paced, often enraging, You Don't Belong Here speaks to the distance travelled and the journey still ahead.' —Geraldine Brooks, Pulitzer Prize-winning author of March, former Wall Street Journal foreign correspondent 'Riveting, powerful and transformative, Elizabeth Becker's You Don't Belong Here tells the stories of three astonishing women. This is a timely and brilliant work from one of our most extraordinary war correspondents.'

The Red River story has remained a best kept secret, largely in part due to President Jefferson's embarrassment over the 1806 Freeman-Custis Expedition's failure at the hands of the Spanish; brought about by the, "Aaron Burr/Wilkinson conspiracy." Every river has a story that can only be told by someone that knows her history and her heart. Red River was always "Treasure River." She just needed Wildwood Dean to tell her story. Allen Rich, North Texas e-News. Treasure River, by Wildwood Dean, meanders along the Red River of the early 19th century with tales of trappers, whiskey dealers and treasure hunters. Yellow Beard, reared by his Wichita Indian mother, has not given up the dream of finding his treasure-hunting father. Jac Colter seeks to make his fortune, in part as recompense for an act of treachery against his father. Smuggling prohibited whiskey to the trappers proves a risky if profitable proposition. Want to know how to make frontier whiskey? Here you'll find the recipe, right down to the rattlesnake heads. In this saga the author lovingly chronicles the imperfect individuals who sought their destinies wherever the streams could take them. Lydia Hawke, author of Firetrail and Perfect Disguise It is astounding that a short 200 years ago, it was more profitable to lose your identity than to steal some one else's; that, the best way to travel from New Orleans to St. Louis was via a steam-driven, wood-eating river boat! In the early 1800's the number one cash crop of the United States was the skin of a beaver. In all probability the second largest cash crop was whisky, until Congress passed a bill in 1832 excluding spirituous liquors from the Indian country.
