Break My Heart 1,000 Times is an unconventional young adult ghost story--part thriller, part mystery, with hints of dystopian fiction--and essentially no chills. Some years after a very poorly-defined cataclysmic "Event" has left ghostly images of millions of the dead visible to the general public, Veronica,an attractive young high-school student is targeted by a creepy teacher, who has suffered his own family losses.

Break My Heart 1,000 Times alternates four narrative arcs – there are the larger arcs following Veronica’s thoughts and Kirk’s, which are interjected with narratives of the ghost boy in Veronica’s bathroom, and Mr. Bittner (the killer, this is not a spoiler since it is revealed in the early chapters). The exchanges with Mr. Bittner, in particular, feel forced and at times almost cringeworthy as the villain reflects and converses about the girls he has murdered in his attempts to ...

Break My Heart 1,000 times was simply okay, from beginning to end. I gave this book two stars because I really thought his world building was very good and different. However, I have to say that everything past that point is merely okay. The characters weren't particularly remarkable, the plot was predictable, and so was the ending.
