Excerpt from Questions and Answers From the Gas Engine The greatest development of the gas and gasoline engine has been within the last decade. During that time hundreds of skilled mechanics and designers have been devoting their entire energies to the developments of improved designs and improved methods of construction of engines belonging to the internal-combustion type. The most progressive of these men have been readers of The Gas Engine, a magazine devoted to the gas engine industry, which was established in 1898. Many hundreds of them have asked questions which were answered through the columns of the magazine by the best authorities in the gas engine world. Believing that these questions and answers have a permanent value compiled in a separate volume, we have collected the majority of the inquiries and their, answers in the present book. While it has been almost impossible to separate these questions along any well-divided lines, yet an effort has been made to place together those questions of similar nature. For instance, questions which related primarily to trouble with engines are placed together. Theoretical questions of design, formulas, etc., are collected together. This book brings to readers a close look at car brands that millions are familiar with, such as Ford, Chevrolet, and Buick to name a few. It is written to entertain readers as they reminisce or learn about various models and their manufacturers. In the first part of the question, readers are encouraged to finish it with a clue to identify the name of the model of the car, and a hint is added for further assistance. Sometimes, tips are provided to consider in which chapter the question appears-following in alphabetical order. The second part of each question will give readers multiple choices to help determine the maker of the car in question. For the most part, only one choice will be correct. However, there are a couple of instances where more than one maker has used a model name. In those cases, all manufacturers will be given in the choices.
