MotorBoating

For more than half a century, Chris-Craft reigned supreme in the world of motorboating. This market dominance was due in no small part to the design and construction techniques employed in the company ' s studios and on its factory floors. Building Chris-Craft examines the company ' s design and production heritage, looking at Chris-Craft ' s considerable accomplishments in the context of key competitors and industrial trends in general. High-quality archival images take readers inside the factories, design studios, and lofts of Chris-Craft factories in Algonac, Holland; Cadillac, Michigan; Salisbury, Maryland; Chattanooga, Tennessee; and Caruthersville, Missouri.

Chris-Craft

"First published in 1989, Waterline is - at least on the surface - the story of the author's struggle to restore (properly) an aged and almost derelict seventeen-foot Chris Craft Deluxe utility motorboat. The restoration of old boats in serious trouble seems to have been a family ritual; whenever there was a family crisis or emotional upheaval, the author's father had proceeded along similar lines. This link between father and son, and between the men and their boats, forms the emotional substrate of this wonderfully winning and moving narrative. It tells the story, really, of two restorations: one of an old boat and the other of the relationship between father and son."
