Stance and voice are among the most significant concepts in writing theory and pedagogy today. Referring to the ways we express a point of view and engage with others, the terms are particularly controversial in the domain of academic writing, long considered a faceless and impersonal kind of discourse. But while corpus research shows that stance is scarcer in academic genres than in many other contexts, the complex, and distinctive ways scholars and students present their attitudes to their texts, their readers and their content offers a rich area of study for discourse analysts and students of academic writing. This book reappraises the notions of stance and voice and reconsiders their relevance in applied linguistics, showing their expression and impact in a broad range of written academic genres. In its fifteen chapters, leading authorities offer their thoughts and research on the following issues:

- The key frameworks, methods, theories and areas of research
- The expression of stance and voice in a range of genres and disciplines
- The centrality of community and context in the expression of stance and voice
- The main factors of variation: channel, discipline, culture and time
- Questions of authenticity, distinctiveness, empowerment and identity

The introduction of the SAT Reasoning Test" with a writing section in March 2005 and the concomitant elimination of the SAT? Subject Test in Writing after January 2005 have led many colleges and institutions to ask for guidance in using the new SAT Reasoning Test writing section scores for college placement and admissions. Standard-setting methodologies provide one possible set of processes that can be used to identify point(s) on a score scale to divide a group of examinees into categories. Many standard-setting methods have been developed, but only one, the Angoff Method (1971) with Mean Estimation for Essays (Loomis and Bourque 2001), is presented in this document. This document presents many of the decisions needed to conduct a standard-setting session and then provides step-by-step directions to enable colleges or institutions to conduct their own local Angoff-based standard setting for the SAT writing section. Many examples of the data collection documents and supplementary preparation and training materials useful during the standard-setting process, including test items for the March 2005 SAT writing section, are provided. Colleges and institutions are strongly encouraged to use the free Admitted Class Evaluation Service" (ACES") offered by the College Board for users of College Board tests to collect information regarding the validity of using specific cut scores on the SAT Reasoning Test writing section for placement or admissions for their institutions' applicants and students. The following are appended: (1) Information on the SAT Reasoning Test" Writing Section; (2) A Sample Schedule for a Standard Setting Using Angoff with Mean Estimation to Set One Cut Score; (3) A Sample Schedule for a Standard Setting Using Angoff with Mean Estimation to Set Two Cut Scores; (4) SAT Essay Prompt and Multiple-Choice Items for Writing--March 2005; (5) Scoring Guide for the SAT? High-school writing prompts often ask students to provide overly simplified responses to complicated issues, but a person's stance in the real world can rarely, if ever, be reduced to "agree or disagree." Arguments are complex, with more than two points of view and a range of evidence to consider; however, writing classes don't always embrace that complexity. Real Writing: Modernizing the Old School Essay contends that engaging fully with complex texts and difficult, nuanced arguments helps students become better thinkers and writers, more fully prepared for life both in and after high school.

What you're actually supposed to do when the SAT asks you about an author's attitude... Why you shouldn't put your faith in diagnostic tests, even if they come from the College Board... The important implications of viewing time as an investment on test day... The simple formula that allows you to crank out a top-scoring essay (that is, if you even need to do the SAT Essay in the first place)... The special grammatical rules that are followed by the SAT Writing and Language section...and how they sometimes differ from common usage in school... The unwritten rules for every kind of SAT question... The many ways to approach an SAT Math question, and which ones are likely to work best for you... Why the "order of difficulty" doesn't really exist... Why every real SAT question can potentially be answered in under 30 seconds... And much more than we can fit in this space...
