When you sit down to write your college essay or college personal statement, don't dismiss the introduction. In fact, it's probably the most important part of your essay, because it draws in the reader. Ideally, this should begin right from the attention-grabbing opening sentence. Many people make the mistake of writing an introductory paragraph that explains what they are going to talk about in the rest of the essay.

The Parts of a College Essay Introduction. Your intro tells your reader what to expect from your essay. Think of it as a brief roadmap that begins with an intriguing opening line, includes a quick summary of the topic and ideas you'll present, and concludes with a thesis statement. Opening Hook

A primary purpose of the introduction is to draw a reader in and keep them engaged in the paper. Whether it's a personal statement, a thesis, or a research paper, all introductions are meant to capture a reader's curiosity about the subject of the paper while giving them an overview of the paper's main ideas.
