" The Wild Dead is a tightly plotted mind-thrill . . . This is the feminist dystopian mystery series you didn ' t know you needed. " — Meg Elison, Philip K. Dick Award – winning author of The Road to Nowhere series Mysteries and murder abound in the sequel to the Philip K. Dick Award – winning Bannerless A century after environmental and economic collapse, the people of the Coast Road have rebuilt their own sort of civilization, striving not to make the mistakes their ancestors did. They strictly ration and manage resources, including the ability to have children. Enid of Haven is an investigator, who with her new partner, Teeg, is called on to mediate a dispute over an old building in a far-flung settlement at the edge of Coast Road territory. The investigators ' decision seems straightforward — and then the body of a young woman turns up in the nearby marshland. Almost more shocking than that, she ' s not from the Coast Road, but from one of the outsider camps belonging to the nomads and wild folk who live outside the Coast Road communities. Now one of them is dead, and Enid wants to find out who killed her, even as Teeg argues that the murder isn ' t their problem. In a dystopian future of isolated communities, can our moral sense survive the worst hard times? " An intriguing mystery made compelling by its post-apocalyptic setting . . . Another great read from Vaughn. " — S. M. Stirling, New York Times best-selling author of The Sky-Blue Wolves and Dies the Fire A Mariner Original A John Joseph Adams Book
