How to Prevent Mouth Breathing and Dry Mouth With CPAP

Continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) therapy is a common treatment for obstructive sleep apnea. A CPAP machine uses a hose and mask or nosepiece to deliver constant and steady air pressure. Common problems with CPAP include a leaky mask, trouble falling asleep, stuffy nose and a dry mouth.

Cpap Full Breath Solution
Doctors say the machine that helps some people with sleep apnea keep their airway open at night won't be enough to help an ill COVID-19 patient breathe and could spread the coronavirus to bystanders.

The gold standard in sleep apnea treatment has long been a CPAP machine, but while it's effective, it comes with drawbacks in noise and discomfort that discourage some people from using it. That's why Bryan Keropian, DDS, who founded the Full Breath Center of Beverly Hills in Los Angeles, developed special sleep apnea mouthpieces that are more comfortable and effective than other treatments available today.
