"Dear White People: We are the ones that need to change. This is not one man's story. This is almost every black man's story. Which is why the problem is ours. We need to find OUR way to change what we do. There is no quick fix. It's a moral imperative," he wrote in a post that included a letter from the Emerson College president.

Dear White America: Letter to a New Minority In America, being white has long meant never having to think about race. Whites have been able to assume that the culture, political leadership and their own neighborhoods would "look like them," and the economy would work for them, so long as they played by the rules.
