2001 Land Rover Discovery Series II Owners Manual Handbook

I had a td5 auto and hated it, as Wiltshire man said I was constantly thinking, come on change up you bastard, I felt if I was driving a manual I would not have had to drive it as hard to get it into a higher, less revy, more economical gear. I only had it 2 months and got shot, I would not have another auto landy,ever.

My TD5 manual disco 2 has developed a gear selector problem which I do not believe to be the usual bias plate/springs, these I replaced and set up some time ago after the usual breakage and it drove very well. This truck always had the occasional baulk to finding first gear since I got it, over 30...

Discovery 2: Disco 2 Auto in Manual Mode

after just sitting in the back of an AA lorry for 9 hours and my 3rd auto box blowing on me at the end of the wayfarer byway in wales im converting over to a manual. i know this is going to be a bigish job and an expensive one but the auto box isnt any good for off road.

What I will say is this, the auto box oil and filter change IS part of the service schedule on the Discovery 2, so "if" your car has a full history, then it would have def been done at some point in its life. The schedule only calls for the filter to be done at the first 24,000 mile service, how ever I personally see no point in renewing the ...

Manual vs Automatic Off-road

1. Not true on Disco II - autobox lockup works on 3rd and 4th. 2. TC does not mean no engine braking. You can select lower gears exactly as per a manual box plus in low ratio the TC is locked up anyway and by pressing the M button you can use the box exactly as per a manual ie starting off and staying in any gear you select.

Ok my third question . I did read the owners manual..... I read in the Manual that if I put it into Low Range and press the Mode button the gearbox should go into manual mode and the "m" light should come on , what happens is that the "s" light comes on telling me it is in sport mode (i.e as if i was in high range) This tells me that I am not really in low range or a faulty sensor .

IMHO an auto box lets me drive MORE SAFELY by virtue of getting less tired. For the same reason I use cruise control where possible which tends to also avoid speeding. Before my present Disco I used two Peugeot 406 s, the first was manual the second was Auto & had cruise control. Comparison of those 2 made me ensure my next car was an Auto. David
