Southeast Asia: Patterns of Security Cooperation

This paper explores the current regional cooperation landscape in this area and then draws on other regions (Arctic, Caribbean, Mediterranean and the Baltic) experience to seek out inspiration and possible best practices for Southeast Asia. Inventing Environmental Cooperation in Southeast Asia | A ...

While it is often said that ASEAN's long-standing policy of non-interference acts as an impediment to regional cooperation on transboundary environmental issues, and that therefore ASEAN is ill-equipped to control or mitigate ecological degradation within its political space (Jones, 2009; Aggarwal, & Chow, 2010; Molthof, 2012; The Economist, 2015; Collins, 2016; Nguyen, 2016), in this essay we argue that the institutional regime codified in the ASEAN Charter is in fact well-suited to ...

One of the most challenging environmental threats to the ten countries of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) has been the haze, the sickening and deadly cloud of smoky pollution caused by widespread burning of land and forests in Indonesia. This book examines both the threat and response to it by analysing environmental cooperation in Southeast Asia from an international regime perspective.

In principle, the political arena consists of four main actors: local environmental groups, international organisations, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), and nation states.

Considering the transnational and multilateral impact of environmental issues, ASEAN is the sole institution in the region that can provide the necessary framework to address issues on a multilateral level.
