An arranged marriage and a bad boy who breaks all of the rules...

My father's been planning my wedding day for longer than I have. Since I turned seventeen, he's sent me on date after date with people from the film industry – producers, directors, actors... I've dated – and turned down – them all. But Ryde Alexander is the worst. He's vapid, self-obsessed, and it doesn't help that his sister is evil in a pair of Louboutin heels. Too bad he's the one my dad is determined to send me down the aisle with the day I turn eighteen.

My only escape is a food delivery boy and a motorcycle my dad would have a heart attack if I got on. But I don't care. I need to get away, and Ronan is more than happy to take me. But this forbidden getaway driver is starting to mean more to me than the man I'm supposed to marry. The only problem is, I may not have a choice. Zara's story in The Curvy Girl Club is the emotional, exciting read you have been waiting for! Who wouldn't want to be whisked away on the back of Ronan Moretti's motorcycle and have the adventure of a lifetime? Start reading Curvy Girls Can't Date Bad Boys today and begin falling in love.

A continuation of Josephine Donovan's exploration of American women's literary traditions, begun with New England Local Color Literature: A Women's Tradition, which treats the nineteenth-century realists, this work analyzes the writing of major women writers of the early twentieth century--- Edith Wharton, Willa Cather, and Ellen Glasgow. The author sees the Demeter-Persephone myth as central to these writers' thematics, but interprets the myth in terms of the historical transitions taking place in turn-of-the-century America. Donovan focuses on the changing relationship between mothers and daughters--- in particular upon the "new women's" rebellion against the traditional women's culture of their nineteenth-century mothers (both literary and literal). An introductory chapter traces the male-supremacist ideologies that formed the intellectual climate in which these women wrote. Reorienting Wharton, Cather, and Glasgow within women's literary traditions produces major reinterpretations of their works, including such masterpieces as Ethan Frome, Summer, My Antonia, Barren Ground, and others. Josephine Donovan's books include Feminist Theory: The Intellectual Traditions of American Feminism; New England Local Color Literature: A Women's Tradition; and Sarah Orne Jewett. She is on the faculty of the University of Maine.
