Now, twenty-seven years later, the Firstborn are back. This time, they are pulling no punches: They have sent a “quantum bomb.” Speeding toward Earth, it is a device that human scientists can barely comprehend, that cannot be stopped or destroyed—and one that will obliterate Earth.

In the third book of the Time Odyssey trilogy the Earth is under attack again by the mystical Firstborn this time with an unstoppable Q bomb. Especially enjoyed the clever and believable use of current physical theories through the book. Not Clarke's best by far but a respectable closing of a wonderful life work.

Firstborn is the concluding volume in Sir Arthur C. Clarke and Stephen Baxter's Time Odyssey trilogy.

The preceding two books in this science-fiction series are Time's Eye (2003) and Sunstorm (2005).

Each prior novel was vivid, innovative, and compelling. I cannot say the same thing about Firstborn. The final installment is a disappointing capstone.
