Trinity Blood - Reborn on the Mars Volume 1: The Star of Sorrow Taylor & Francis

"The 'economization of art' began to take shape in the wake of the crisis of capital in 2009. The shifts that occurred in the art field during this time were accompanied by explicit critique and academic analysis that aimed to make the genesis of these transformations comprehensible. In this book, first delivered as a lecture at Kunsthalle Bern in April 2016, Diedrich Diederichsen follows Marx's labor theory of value and counters the symbolic economies dominating the art field, as well as economic exceptionalism or calculation, with systems of recording and reading out. Expanded to include the sphere of individual aesthetic experience, these systems are not formulated as solipsism, or in terms of purposefulness, but as a means to compare relations within the productivity of open and incalculable connectivity, relations that allow aesthetic experience to be read out as the liquefied labor and lifetime of concrete others" --Publisher's website.

When I was in South Africa, the children in the public schools were singing, Jesus loves me. When I told them that we in America could no longer do that, one of the high school girls asked me two questions: Is that true? and Why did you let it happen? That is what I am wondering as I write this book. How did this happen in America? Why did we allow it to happen? What are we going to do about it?

Self-organisation, Counter-economic Strategies Lab Companion

“Fear Not my dear, Fear not of me Fear Not for fear shall not help thee The time is short, my plans are made Your casket shall be trimmed with jade.” Thus begins Aurore Leigh Barrett’s poem, “Fear Not” – an homage to one of her favorite poets, Edgar Allan Poe. It masterfully combines the macabre with the humorous. This stellar work, which Poe, no doubt, would wish he had written, is just one of a few poems in this current collection written in his honor – and one of many poems you will find that ably represent Barrett’s enormous talent. This collection of poems and stories by Aurore Leigh Barrett invites you to step into the world of this creative artist, and sample the breadth and depth of her literary world. Rather than being an exhaustive representation of a solitary style or mood, this book is a buffet of delights as it takes you from the lows of her loneliness to the heights of her happiness - from the dark and scary side of her imagination to the forthright and intelligent adventures of her alter-ego, Holly Hedges Whistler. Through it all, we share in her view of the world, and the way she makes the most of every day this life has to offer. In “Stardust”, Barrett tells how she begins each day - throwing a spoonful of stardust into the wind. “The Stardust flies, the light sparkles, the grass begins to twinkle as the blades catch each falling ‘star’, and the flowers bow their heads as if to receive this glistening gift.” As Barrett lays bare her feelings, she tells us that writing is “a beautiful sweet torture of the soul”. She tells us that “writing is the pain of pulling away precious bits of memory or time. It is the quickening of birth within the loins of creation. It is the delicious ecstasy of desire that only I can satisfy.” Welcome to her world. This all-too-brief collection of Aurore Leigh Barrett’s writing will leave you hungry for more.
