The article first reviews rates and definitions of tropical deforestation and the environmental implications in terms of climate change, biodiversity loss, and reduced supply of forest products. Tropical deforestation and other land use changes contributed about 20 percent of the global anthropogenic CO₂ emissions during the 1990s. The main focus of the article is on the driving forces of deforestation.

Forest Products Journal / Allen Press

Nontimber forest products (NTFPs) are composed of a broad variety of products of plant or fungal origin extracted from forests (Chamberlain et al. 1998).The products have been used and valued by communities across the United States for generations, but many of the products lack systematic research or quantification of the values they provide (Alexander et al. 2001).
