This book discusses the importance of identifying and addressing

misconceptions for the successful teaching and learning of science across all levels of science education from elementary school to high school. It suggests teaching

approaches based on research data to address

students' common misconceptions. Detailed descriptions of how these instructional approaches can be incorporated into teaching and learning science are also included.

The science education

literature extensively documents the findings of studies about students' misconceptions or

alternative conceptions

about various science concepts. Furthermore,

some of the studies involve systematic approaches to not only creating but also implementing instructional programs to reduce the incidence of these misconceptions among high school science students.

These studies, however, are largely unavailable to classroom practitioners, partly because they are usually found in various science education journals that teachers have no time to refer to or are not readily available to them. In response, this book offers an essential and easily accessible guide.

Book 2 covers the topics of Mechanics, which is a foundation of Physics for many other topics.

The name Force and Motion is used by the HKEAA for this section of the syllabus. In a sense this reflects some changes in the methodology in teaching and learning. It takes time for students to grasp the concepts and master the necessary skills in solving problems. To make learning

Physics more interesting, I have included relevant questions related to our everyday experience and new happenings, such as the docking of the Tiangong 1 space module with Shenzhou 8

spacecraft

(天宮一號與神州八號對接) and

the Wenzhou Train Accident

(甬台溫鐵路列車追撞事故).

School Science Practical

Work in Africa presents the scope of research and practice of science practical work in African schools. It brings together prominent science educators and researchers from Africa to share their experience and findings on pedagogical innovations and research-informed practices on school science practical work. The book highlights trends and patterns in the enactment and role of practical work across African countries.

Practical work is regarded as intrinsic to science teaching and learning and the form of practical work that is strongly advocated is inquiry-based learning, which signals a definite paradigm shift from the traditional teacher-dominated to a learner-centered approach. The book provides empirical research on approaches to practical work, contextual factors in the enactment of practical work, and professional development in teaching practical work. This book will be of great interest to academics, researchers and post-graduate students in the fields of science education and educational policy.

Sometimes you have a dream and when you wake up, you thank God "it was just a dream." God uses dreams to reveal what is going on in the spiritual realm of one's life. Dreams often reveal things that we may physically be unaware. When you have a dream, ignoring it does not solve the problem. God uses dreams to guide us to we make correct decisions in our lives. He also uses dreams to warn us if something bad was going to happen so we can pray and change it. More importantly, God uses dreams to reveal His purpose in our lives. Every dream has a purpose and interpretation. For instance, when you dream you are eating, being chased by people, driving a car, taking exams, being in a place you have never know or used to live, etc; God is directing speaking to you things that are going on in your life. The Bible has answers to all these dreams and many others. This book will reveal God's word to you in a personal level because interpretations of dreams are personal and are based on God's message to you
