The Unite gold coin varied between 20-22 shillings, while the Guinea coin was a fixed 21 shillings. The sovereign pound coin that followed lowered this - and the coin's metal content - to be worth 20 shillings. The silver crown coins were similar to other European silver coins of the time, making them easily tradable, but the lack of consistency in the coin metal content meant many coins were undervalued and, as time went on, owners realised the coins were worth more smelted down.
