Employer's Tax Guide (Circular E) - The Families First Coronavirus Response Act (FFCRA), enacted on March 18, 2020, and amended by the COVID-related Tax Relief Act of 2020, provides certain employers with tax credits that reimburse them for the cost of providing paid sick and family leave wages to their employees for leave related to COVID 19. Qualified sick and family leave wages and the related credits for qualified sick and family leave wages are only reported on employment tax returns with respect to wages paid for leave taken in quarters beginning after March 31, 2020, and before April 1, 2021, unless extended by future legislation. If you paid qualified sick and family leave wages in 2021 for 2020 leave, you will claim the credit on your 2021 employment tax return. Under the FFCRA, certain employers with fewer than 500 employees provide paid sick and family leave to employees unable to work or telework. The FFCRA required such employers to provide leave to such employees after March 31, 2020, and before January 1, 2021. Publication 15 (For use in 2021) Standardized Regulations This book is a succinct compilation of ideas and strategies, written in layman's language to help the small business owner deal with taxes. It lists ways to write off expenditures for basic needs such as food, clothing, housing, and travel. It teaches why it is important for the small business owner to do business as a corporation or limited liability company and to work with multiple entities. It sets out why you should involve family members in your business and ways you can legitimately write off meals, travel, and entertainment expenses. This book will guide you in deducting car and truck expenses you use in your business. It outlines how you can write off home office expenses and how you can build tax-free equity through your home. It gives guidelines for avoiding government audits and prescribes helpful advice in the event you are selected for examination. It even sets out rules for numbers in your returns and ways to avoid having them become audit flags.

NSWSES Travel Guide

The Model Rules of Professional Conduct provides an up-to-date resource for information on legal ethics. Federal, state and local courts in all jurisdictions look to the Rules for guidance in solving lawyer malpractice cases, disciplinary actions, disqualification issues, sanctions questions and much more. In this volume, black-letter Rules of Professional Conduct are followed by numbered Comments that explain each Rule's purpose and provide suggestions for its practical application. The Rules will help you identify proper conduct in a variety of given situations, review those instances where discretionary action is possible, and define the nature of the relationship between you and your clients, colleagues and the courts.

Government Operations

In response to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the operations of the U.S. Tax Court to identify areas that need improvement. GAO found that the Court could make improvements in the scheduling and management of cases.

As a result of the increase in petitions filed with the Court, the case backlog doubled between 1980 and 1982. To reduce the backlog and prevent old cases from accumulating, the Court needs to take more action so that available trial time is used more. The Court also needs to develop techniques for monitoring the progress being made in closing the cases that have been reported as settled. Because cases are not closed when scheduled, they are placed back into the trial setting process, consuming time and personnel resources and delaying other cases from being heard. GAO found that more efficient alternatives could be tried to reduce the expense of leasing courtrooms in cities where trials are held infrequently. GAO also found a need to improve the Court's accounting procedures and travel allowance guidelines. In addition, GAO found that the Court has not taken advantage of automated equipment to assist in document processing and developing management information. The Court needs to test alternatives to its current system of basing all of its judges in Washington, D.C., and sending them to other cities to conduct trial sessions. Finally, GAO found that, after the Court holds a trial, it takes an average of more than 14 months to issue its opinion.
