"The ice is a cold mistress. As the league's most eligible goalie, Max Fournier has access to his fair share of willing puck bunnies, but right now he's more interested in bringing home another championship than a one-night stand. A romantic at heart, Max believes in love; he's just not great at relationships. So when he finally meets a nice girl who's not blinded by his celebrity, he's feeling the heat--and the pressure to save her from herself. Between working two jobs and raising her sister's kids, Julianne Bradley doesn't have time for sports--or men. All she knows about Max is that he's the sexiest customer to ever grace her gas-station counter. And he sees past her tired eyes and makes Jules yearn for things she can't have: a glamorous fling, a passionate lover, and the time to enjoy both. Max makes her feel like Cinderella, even though Jules has enough baggage to crush a glass slipper. Luckily, he's no prince--only a fierce competitor determined to win her heart"--Page 4 of cover.

Photon Radiation Therapy for Skin Malignancies is a vital resource for dermatologists interested in radiation therapy, including the physics and biology behind treatment of skin cancers, as well as useful and pragmatic formulas and algorithms for evaluating and treating them. Dermatology has always been a field that overlaps multiple medical specialties and this book is no exception, with its focus on both dermatologists and radiation oncologists. It is estimated that between 2010 and 2020, the demand for radiation therapy will exceed the number of radiation oncologists practicing in the U.S. tenfold, which could profoundly affect the ability to provide patients with sufficient access to treatment. Photon Radiation Therapy for Skin Malignancies enhances the knowledge of dermatologists and radiation oncologists and presents them with the most up-to-date information regarding detection, delineation and depth determination of skin cancers, and appropriate biopsy techniques. In addition, the book also addresses radiation therapy of the skin and the skin's reactions to radiation therapy.

A rollicking, rip-roaring double-dose of action and adventure from the world of the Hollywood Vampires! Starring Clarisse, Brandi, Donita, and Katheryne, Love, Red Wine, & Magick's two novellas take you down south, back in the 1960's -- when men were men, women kicked ass, and horrible things lurked in the dark hearts of ancient swamps! In "The Ballad of Thomas Brown," a mysterious traveling bluesman by the name of Tom Brown comes to Seward County, Mississippi and is menaced by the town's local -- and dangerous -- racist idiot, Mort. Out to steal 'ol Tom Brown's hard-earned pay, Mort and his gang are foiled time and again by the resourceful guitarist... But when the sun goes down, the dark secret of Mort's questionable lineage comes to the forefront -- along with a healthy dose of frustrated rage -- and turns a figurative monster into a real one! Fortunately for 'ol Tom has a few angels on his shoulder in the form of the Sisters of Fury -- an all-female, all-vampire biker gang who've stopped in Seward to listen to some good old country blues. With the likes of sultry, clever Clarisse and relentless powerhouse Brandi on his side, 'ol Tom's odds are a lot better than they were before... Or are they? Meanwhile, over in "Linda Marie," Jimbeau Getty's one true gal Linda Marie has been mentally hijacked by a sly necromancer and the disembodied spirit of HIS one true gal, leaving poor old Jimbeau in a bad way. Thankfully, Jimbeau's got some formidable friends in the form of half-vampires Donita and Katheryne -- a gypsy and witch duo who are best friends, lovers, and extremely loyal to their pals. With gentle Katheryne and loudmouth Donita in tow, Jimbeau plunges into the dark depths of an eldritch Louisiana swamp in search of Linda Marie -- while the necromancer and his lady love are out to open a gateway to another dimension and turn loose a monstrous horror from beyond the veil of time... A horror that could spell the end of everything. But Jimbeau and the girls don't know that yet. They just want to get Linda Marie back -- and find themselves battling hordes of zombies and a gigantic abomination made from hundreds of human corpses! And then... When the true stakes of the game are revealed, it's a cataclysmic showdown of cosmic proportions as the fate of the world rests in the hands of a belligerent gypsy and her air-sick companion! Hold on tight, folks -- it's gonna be a bumpy ride. Love, Red Wine, & Magick disposes of the usual angst and drama found in vampire fiction for a hard-hitting, hilarious, and totally human perspective, bringing you thrills, chills, spills... and laughs aplenty!

Was the boy a half-brother or a son? Whatever he happened to be Seaton Domberger could not reject him as his own flesh and blood. Still more: he loved him and got along with him finely. All the same, he was in doubt as to the biological origin of this progeny in spite of DNA parental testing and other no less convincing proofs. What ailed him so much in this respect was that Joseph Barne, his own father, whom he had never seen, had raped, or tried to rape, the young woman who gave birth to the boy. She, on that account, used to say that she was not sure whether the child was the son of her older or younger lover. Such declarations did not fail to inflict pain on the latter but did not prevent him from becoming her legitimate husband. Seaton Domberger never succeeded in meeting his father to settle accounts with him and make him pay dear for the harm this dishonest man had done to his mother whom he held in great affection. On the other hand he could not help loving the son of his wife, who might well be his, and consequently he cooperated with him for years on end.
