Having imparted

courses on Spanish grammar in college for many years and despite the options, the author could never find a grammar textbook, manual, or course that could serve his students' needs fully. After regularly supplementing, and oftentimes completely replacing grammar textbooks with his own material, Oscar

H. Moreno realized that the stack of supplementary material lying on his desk was not only popular among his students but also good enough for another Spanish grammar for college students. It is different and this grammar has been put together strictly on the basis of what shows to be academic and professional needs of students of Spanish. The approach to the teaching and learning of Spanish in this grammar is a linguistic one and makes reasonable use of specific terminology in the field of Spanish language studies.
