The Bulletproof Planner is specifically designed for students with Executive Function challenges, including ADHD. The first step is to capture each assignment, which is the first milestone to success, and then to provide a framework for managing tasks to completion. The Bulletproof Planner puts assignments and due dates in the crosshairs of the target, providing visibility and tracking so that work doesn't fall through the cracks or get overrun by competing priorities. But the real value in the Bulletproof Planner is that it provides scaffolding to strengthen and internalize the executive function skills in the process of tracking assignments. It also provides a crucial feedback loop for successes to improve the self-image and motivation of struggling students. The Bulletproof Planner is a platform to create the skills required to be successful in school right now, and beyond.
