Who Wants to Marry a Billionaire? Melanie Marchande

Their past is complicated, but that won't stop them from giving love another shot. Luke has worked hard to be where he's at, but his grandfather doesn't see it that way. He'd be fine cutting off Luke's inheritance if he doesn't settle down. Luke wants to, but he wants it to be for love. It's not that Lauren's life is awful, but things aren't as perfect as she'd hoped. She's floundering in a dead-end job, so she takes a chance and applies for a position across the country. Only there's a surprise—her ex is her new boss. Luke and Lauren have a thorny history, but their attraction for each other is alive and well. If they want a second chance at love, it's going to have to be on their terms.

I Married a Billionaire Kristy J. Walker

I'm the whole package. Rich. Sexy as hell. Brilliant in bed and business. Big cock. So why the hell is it so hard to settle down? I want a woman to see me for who I am, and that's hard when most only see me with dollar signs in their eyes. So I signed up for some crazy experiment to be married to a stranger. Never knowing a thing about the person. I was ready for true love. When I married Adeline at the altar, I had to make sure that she didn't know a thing about me as well. So I did what I thought was best. I lied about who I was. If we find true love, I'm sure she will forgive me when she learns who I really am.

The Marriage Merger Funstory

A washed-up rockstar, a single mother, and a marriage of convenience. David Weston is done with the rockstar lifestyle. After a decade of decadence, he moves back home to the country hamlet of Ocilla, Georgia, to rediscover who he always meant to be. But finding himself in the small town of his childhood is harder and lonelier than he thought it'd be. Cassidy lost her husband, her life savings and is on the brink of losing her sanity. With three children to feed and no roof over their heads, she moves back in with her parents. Working two jobs and taking care of a family has exhausted every reserve she has, and with the medical bills piling up, she can't see a way forward. When a friend signs Cassidy up for online dating, she finds herself face to face with her high-school sweetheart, who just happens to be one of the biggest rockstars in the world. He's rich, handsome and kind. She's lonely, tired and desperate. When he suggests a marriage of convenience it doesn't take much to convince her to give it a try. But there's more to this relationship than either one is willing to admit. A small-town, heartwarming and laugh-out-loud romance that will give you all the feels. Perfect for fans of Debbie Macomber, Inghath Cooper, Carolyn Brown, and Catherine Bybee. This contemporary love story involves a rockstar, a widow, three loveable children, a marriage of convenience and plenty of spine-tingling kisses.

They have it all...except the one thing that matters most. Charlie McLaughlin loves structure. She's kept the same daily schedule for the past four years, arriving at the same building and sitting at the same desk. She loves the familiarity of it all. Unpredictability makes her feel out of control. Nicholas Shaw lives life by the seat of his pants. He's intrigued by the classy, statuesque blonde who works for his college roommate and longtime friend. She's exactly the type of woman his family would expect him to marry. In fact, if she were his wife, he could put an end to his mother's persistent matchmaking, once and for all. At least it would get him through his brother's upcoming wedding. Charlie resists the offer at first, but her ten-year high school reunion is coming up. Arriving with a billionaire next to her is just what she needs to finally stick it to the classmates who were so mean to her. They agree to pretend to be married for a week, then go their separate ways. What they don't expect is that they'll fall in love. The Silicon Valley Billionaires series is a sweet, clean contemporary billionaire series filled with swoon-worthy heroes and plenty of romantic moments.

Who Wants to Marry a Billionaire? Not Nina Alves. With her full-time job at the DeVere Foundation and a comically dysfunctional family that keeps her busy and broke, she can't even find time for a coffee date. Enter Daniel DeVere. Desperate to impress his philanthropist father with the purchase of an eco-hotel, there is only one problem - his playboy lifestyle has turned the owner off and he needs to present a more mature image if he is to have any chance of salvaging the deal. With sensible Nina as his fake fiance surely the deal will be secured. Putting on a convincing show in public is one thing, but the passion they are pretending to have for one another begins to spill over into their private moments and they are each forced to admit that they are hoping for something more. Excerpt: When they got back to the resort, Daniel winked at Nina, "Tonight, you are going to learn El Tamborito." "Is that contagious?" "I hope so." He led her into the bedroom. There was a gorgeous traditional Panamanian dress laid out on the bed: it had a full, heavily pleated skirt, a ruffled top, and amazing embroidery threaded through it. It was white with red designs. "There's a festival in town, and we're going." "If I wear that, people will think that I can really dance." "And you will," there was a knock on the door, "that's Luisa, and she's going to teach you." "What about you?" Daniel looked at her slyly, "Oh, I can dance." He gave her a peck on the cheek. "Have fun, I'll be back in two hours to get you." Luisa, the dance instructor, joined Nina. "Hola! I'm Luisa, Nina. I'm going to put on a CD." She popped a CD into the cabaña's little stereo. "First, listen for a couple of minutes." The rhythms were wonderful, Nina thought, there were drums, and clapping, and a female singer. "What's she singing about?" "Ah," Luisa said knowingly, "She sings about the attraction between men and women, about... the tension between men and women when they want to do more than dance!" Maybe, Nina thought, El Tamborito wasn't such a good idea... marry a billionaire, billionaire marriage, fake marriage, contemporary romance, romantic comedy, romcom

When Maddy Thorne agreed to marry her billionaire boss in order to keep him in the country, she never would have guessed they'd actually stay together. But over a year later, she's still happily married to the slightly eccentric, maddeningly attractive Daniel. As he begins to come out of his shell and turn into the figurehead that his growing technology company needs, Maddy finds herself dealing with a whole new set of problems. And despite his newfound openness, he's still keeping secrets. Even from her. But despite her misgivings and the ever-present prattle of journalists, really, Maddy can't complain. Then, a frantic late-night phone call changes everything. Daniel has been accused of illegal insider trading. His assets frozen, he suddenly finds himself at the center of a media circus and a trial under a merciless judge with no way out. Maddy wants to support him, but it seems all Daniel wants to do is crawl back into his shell. In the midst of the chaos, Maddy receives an offer to display her drawings at one of the most influential galleries in the city. Pulled in two directions even as her life crashes down around her, will Maddy allow Daniel to keep pushing her away, or will she find a way to pull him back? Marry To a Billionaire CEO Macmillan

This book is a standalone followup to the Top 100 Kindle Store bestseller I Married a Billionaire and I Married a Billionaire: Lost & Found. Writing billionaire tech mogul Daniel Thorne's official biography is no small task. His wife Maddy isn't quite sure how it fell on her shoulders - but she's not exactly complaining. It's given her a rare opportunity to learn about the details of Daniel's life that he's never shared with her before. After a rocky beginning, their relationship has finally settled into something comforting and secure. After a while, Maddy begins to reconsider her once-staunch decision not to have children. Then, one night, a ghost from Daniel's past appears. His father, believed to be dead, has come back in hopes of repairing their relationship. Daniel is devastated by the years-long deception, and suspicious of his father's motives in reappearing after so much time. Old Mr. Thorne has his reasons for disappearing, but how can he possibly repair a relationship that's been so badly fractured by distance and lies? Meanwhile, Maddy gets some unexpected news of her own, and she realizes she must find a way to reach her husband and his father, to knit them all together into a family again. - Excerpt - I walked down the hall towards Daniel's office. Nothing had changed; the hallway still smelled the same, the carpet still felt the same under my shoes. And yes, his sharp-faced assistant, Alice, was still there. She gave me a curt nod as I went to the door and pushed it open, not bothering to stop and let myself be announced. Daniel was kneeling by the window, watering one of his plants. He'd taken his jacket off and rolled up his sleeves, and as I slowly shut the door behind me, I saw him reach out and touch the bottom of one of the leaves, laying it out over his hand and leaning down to look at it more closely. The click of the door made him look up. "Is something wrong?" was, of course, the first thing that came out of his mouth. In retrospect, I probably did nothing to assuage this fear when I rushed to him silently and threw my arms around him, holding him tightly, resting my head on his chest. He was frozen for a moment, but then he wrapped his arms around me. By now, I was used to the idea that returning an embrace would never be a reflex for him. "No," I said, finally. "I just love you, that's all." "I love you too," he said, with a mild surprise still registering in his voice. I pulled back, looking at his face. The sort of taken-aback expression, and his overall ruffled and thrown-off appearance, was almost painfully adorable. "I just wanted to see you," I said. "I'm sorry if this is a bad time." "Yes," he said, his face finally relaxing into a smile. "I'm very busy with my plants, as you can see." "Well, I'm sorry. They're just going to have to wait." It was a strange feeling, being in this room again - he hadn't even rearranged the furniture since the first day I'd walked in here and he'd handed me a contract proposing a fake marriage, with his disgraced lawyer sitting uncomfortably in the corner. "It's nice to know some things never change," I said. "Are you referring to me, or the room?" "Both. Maybe. I'm not sure." My head was buzzing, and I could feel my throat beginning to grow dry. But this time, it wasn't a sign of an impending panic attack. That, I was sure of. "Did you used to be different, or did I just get to know you better?" "Both," he said, with his arms still around my waist, holding me close. The heat of his body was making my knees feel weak. "I'm an acquired taste." "I don't know," I said, softly. "Personally, I always liked it."
