Complete Stories*
Truman Capote's
masterpiece, In Cold Blood, created a sensation when it was first published,
serially, in The New Yorker in 1965. The intensively
researched,
atmospheric narrative
of the lives of the Clutter family of Holcomb, Kansas, and of the two men,
Richard Eugene Hickock

and Perry Edward Smith, who brutally killed them on the night of November 15, 1959, is the seminal work of the "new journalism."
Perry Smith is one of the great dark characters of American literature, full of contradictory emotions. "I thought he was a very nice gentleman," he says of Herb Clutter. "Soft-spoken. I thought so right up to the moment
I cut his throat."
Told in chapters that alternate between the Clutter household and the approach of Smith and Hickock in their black Chevrolet, then between the investigation of the case and the killers' flight, Capote's
account is so detailed that the reader comes to feel almost like a participant in the events.

"I wish I was a Mallard, but God made me a Pekin instead" is the second book in the Duck Ponder Series. Duck Ponder is a series of books that uses the radiant photography of water fowl to illustrate God's word with a simplistic and heartwarming approach. The words within these pages narrate matters of self acceptance demonstrated by Walker's disappointment of having been created a Pekin duck. Once Walker shares his discontentment with his friends, Jack replaces Walker's self doubt with confidence. Reminding him that we are all fearfully and wonderfully created by God for His purposes. Walker's attitude soon transforms into a submissive spirit; honoring

God and grateful for his creation. Included on the pages of this enchanting series are "Ponder this" notes enlightening the reader to fun facts about the featured species. Each book ends with a self application questionnaire titled "Quack with Jack" which incorporates the message into the life of the reader.

One day down on the farm, Duck got a wild idea. "I bet I could ride a bike," he thought. He waddled over to where the boy parked his bike, climbed on and began to ride. At first he rode slowly and he wobbled a lot, but it was fun! Duck rode past Cow and waved to her. "Hello, Cow!" said

Duck. "Moo," said Cow.

But what she thought was, "A duck on a bike? That's the silliest thing I've ever seen!" And so Duck rides past sheep, horse, and all the other barnyard animals.

Suddenly, a group of kids ride by on their bikes and run into the farmhouse, leaving the bikes outside. Now ALL the animals can ride bikes, just like Duck!
