The E250P performs very well for the price range it sells at. The only advice I can give to everybody that owns it is this, DO NOT USE "the auto on" feature! That is what causes this sub as well as many others to burn up sooner or later. Simply shut the sub off when not in use, it will last a lot longer and be trouble free!

The E250 is the right sub if you are looking for a very good balance in price/performance. It will not wake up all the neighborhood but outputs power enough to have a satisfactory experience in home theater applications. I like that it automatically switches to stanby mode if no signal is detected after some minutes. One person found this helpful
