Journals and ledgers are where business transactions are recorded in an accounting system. In essence, detail-level information for individual transactions is stored in one of several possible journals, while the information in the journals is then summarized and transferred (or posted) to a ledger.

and a ledger ...

A general journal is used to record unique journal entries that cannot be processed in a more efficient manner. For example, checks written, sales invoices issued, purchase invoices received, and others can be recorded in a computerized accounting system when the documents are processed.

Recording and tracking uncommon transactions like depreciation, bad debt, and the sale of assets are made easier with journals. Journals and ledgers also help you to capture both the debit and the credit sides of transactions. This is often overlooked when companies do not use books.
