Oggi il tema dell' animale è assai di moda: nelle arti e nei media, nei saperi e nelle scritture, nelle scienze umane e sociali, in filosofia, nelle scienze giuridiche, in quelle politiche e paesaggistiche. Tuttavia, non si tratta di una moda come tutte le altre. Essa difatti pone, al di là del marketing culturale, una questione assai delicata: non c'è più solo l'uomo al centro dell'universo, come essere privilegiato che per diritto domina su tutti gli altri viventi. È per questa ragione che l'interrogazione circa i diritti degli animali è al tempo stesso fortemente razionale e fortemente metafisica, quasi religiosa, forse mistica. Una volta posta la questione, scienza e spiritualità, biologia e trascendenza si incontrano. Quanto alla moda, per il semiologo questa non costituisce problema: basta farne oggetto di analisi e considerarla come genere mediatico a sé, con suoi stilemi e suoi dispositivi semiotici.

Angry Cookie RH Childrens Books

Famed spoken-word poet Laura Dockrill's hilarious read-aloud about an outraged baked good! Oooohhh . . . not you again! AGGGHH It's so bright! . . . Close this book this very second, you nosy noodle! Cookie has woken up on the wrong side of the bed and is very angry. You want to know why? Well, you'd have to keep reading to find out, but now Cookie's calling you annoying and telling you to mind your own business. If by chance you do stick around, you might hear about a certain roommate's terrible musical skills, why you should never let your barber try out a "new look," how it's impossible to find a hat that fits a cookie, and why an ice-cream parlor that's out of your favorite treat can be a source of desolation. Then there's the matter of a hungry bird who tries to snack on you. . . . Propelled by quirky humor and woes that every young child can relate to, Angry Cookie suggests that sometimes the best way to cheer up a grumpy lump is simply by being there -- and lending your ears.

Quando gli animali della giungla scoprono una molla, sciacallo non aiuta a costruire, e di conseguenza viene escluso dal bere l'acqua di sorgente. Cosa farà quando si sente sete? When jungle animals discover a spring, the jackal does not help build it, and hence is debarred from drinking the spring water. What will he do when he feels thirsty?"

The danger of being filmed as you take a bath...The cinema spectator with the annoying laugh...Conceited lions being coiffeured ready for the cameras...The cowboy selling off film rights to his own lynching. These are the themes of just some of the cartoons in this book. From initial anxieties about the Cinematographe in the 1890s, to the rapid growth of the film business to become the world's leading form of entertainment by the First World War, all was fair game for satire. Here we find tone-deaf cinema pianists, moviemad children, and lovers embracing in darkened picture palaces, as well as hypocritical censors, faked war films, and caricatures of early film stars such as Max Linder and Mary Pickford. This is the first time a large selection of such cartoons from many different countries has been reprinted, and they provide a unique insight into contemporary reaction to the birth of the movies. Reproduced in colour and black and white with brief introductions, the cartoons are by artists including Heath Robinson, Rube Goldberg, Heinrich Zille, Henriot, Storm Petersen, H. M. Bateman, and many others.
