Raja Rao's Kanthapura (1938) is a subtle study of the immense change that the Gandhian movement of the thirties brought into the life of the Indian woman and yet didn't let her cross the conventional, the so-called feminine boundaries.

Raja Rao was born to a historically influential Brahmin family in the South Indian state of Mysore (now Karnataka), where Kanthapura is also set. Rao's father taught Kannada (the local language that the book's characters presumably speak) and his mother died when Rao was four years old. Rao was the only Hindu student at his Muslim public school before he went to study

English at the University of Madras and graduated in 1929, the same year he originally finished writing Kanthapura. He ...
