Klimt created a number of paintings with his brother Ernst and Franz Matsch in the context of the Künstler-Compagnie (a studio collective) they had set up. Among these early works are the ceiling paintings created in 1887 for the Burgtheater's grand staircases, and they already point towards the symbolistic phase of the fin-de-siècle in Vienna [burgtheater.at].

Gustav Klimt (Austrian, 1862 – 1918) is the most famous of the Viennese Secessionists and one of the leading painters of Art Nouveau. From his earliest paintings, Klimt disclosed the persistent themes of his art: the longings and fears of the human psyche. His sensual paintings are as alluring today as they were to his contemporaries. This book of postcards presents a sumptuous selection of ...
