How Far is America From Here? approaches American nations and cultures from a comparative and interdisciplinary perspective. It is very much at the heart of this comparative agenda that “ America ” be considered as a hemispheric and global matter. It discusses American identities relationally, whether the relations under discussion operate within the borders of the United States, throughout the Americas, and/or worldwide. The various articles here gathered interrogate the very notion of “ America ” : which, whose America, when, why now, how? What is meant by “ far ” —distance, discursive formations, ideals and ideologies, foundational narratives, political conformities, aberrations, inconsistencies? Where is here—positionality, geographies, spatial compressions, hegemonic and subaltern loci, disciplinary formations, reflexes and reflexivities? These questions are addressed with regard to the multiple Americas within the USA and the bi-continental western hemisphere, as part of and beyond inter-American cultural relations, ethnicities across the national and cultural plurality of America, mutual constructions of North and South, borderlands, issues of migration and diaspora. The larger contexts of globalization and America ’ s role within this process are also discussed, alongside issues of geographical exploration, capital expansion, integration, transculturalism, transnationalism and global flows, pre-Columbian and contemporary Native American cultures, the Atlantic slave trade, the environmental crisis, U.S. literature in relation to Canadian or Latin American literature, religious conflict both within the Americas and between the Americas and the rest of the world, with such issues as American Zionism, American exceptionalism, and the discourse of/on terror and terrorism.

O objetivo desta dissertação é estudar de que maneira as metáforas do romance Lavoura arcaica, escrito por Raduan Nassar, em 1975, na qualidade de recurso estilístico, contribuem para a construção dos sentidos da obra. Os estudos da Estilística e da Semântica nos orientaram para o estabelecimento de um conjunto de metáforas que mantêm relações semânticas e morfossintáticas, criando um sistema metafórico que contribui para a instauração da visão de mundo do narrador. A escolha das metáforas como objeto de estudo de nossa pesquisa deve-se à relação que o emprego dessa figura de linguagem cria com os sentidos do texto. O caráter subjetivo do narrador em primeira pessoa e o aspecto intimista do fluxo psicológico são características reforçadas pelo uso que se faz das metáforas no romance. Recolhemos e analisamos as metáforas que identificam os personagens com a natureza, através da utilização do léxico do universo das plantas e dos animais. O tema do conflito de gerações, manifestado na oposição pai e filho, também se revela na identificação do narrador com os aspectos da natureza de ausência de racionalidade e de mecanismos culturais e morais de controle da emoção. O resultado do estudo é um conjunto de 51 expressões metafóricas, classificadas por ramificações do tema "homem é natureza", em que se comentam as características de formação das metáforas e as relações entre elas. Essa sistematização das metáforas inspira.

Argentina lies at the heart of the American hemisphere's history of global migration booms of the mid-nineteenth to early twentieth century: by 1910, one of every three Argentine residents was an immigrant—twice the demographic impact that the United States experienced in the boom period. In this context, some one hundred and forty thousand Ottoman Syrians came to Argentina prior to World War I, and over the following decades Middle Eastern communities, institutions, and businesses dotted the landscape of Argentina from bustling Buenos Aires to Argentina's most remote frontiers. Argentina in the Global Middle East connects modern Latin American and Middle Eastern history through their shared links to global migration systems. By following the mobile lives of individuals with roots in the Levantine Middle East, Lily Pearl Balloffet sheds light on the intersections of ethnicity, migrant – homeland ties, and international relations. Ranging from the nineteenth century boom in transoceanic migration to twenty-first century dynamics of large-scale migration and displacement in the Arabic-speaking Eastern Mediterranean, this book considers key themes such as cultural production, philanthropy, anti-imperial activism, and financial networks over the course of several generations of this diasporic community. Balloffet's study situates this transregional history of Argentina and the Middle East within a larger story of South-South alliances, solidarities, and exchanges.

By providing migration experiences of Arabs to various nation-states, this volume examines socio-historical factors that allowed Arab communities to settle in several places, including Latin America, Singapore, the United States, Europe and Africa. It bridges several fields to provide context that is useful in today's globalized world.
alguns apontamentos sobre Lavoura Arcaica, de Raduan Nassar e Relato de um

certo Oriente, de Milton Hatoum Cambridge University Press

Esta dissertação detém-se numa análise minuciosa do romance Lavoura arcaica, de Raduan Nassar, publicado em 1975. A questão central é o estabelecimento das relações inextricáveis que surgem no romance entre forma e conteúdo. O caráter circular da narrativa e a mistura de gêneros representam a resposta no nível formal à exclusão que se manifesta em seu enredo, na medida em que André - assim como os demais membros do galho esquerdo do tronco familiar - mantém-se excluídos dentro da própria família pelas ações e sobretudo pelo discurso esclarecido do pai. Essa exclusão aprofunda a sua cisão e o leva à desesperada busca pela unidade perdida, que resultará trágica para ele, para a irmã e toda a família (que há muito se encontrava também cindida). A forma do romance responde a esse mesmo anseio, sendo assim ordenação literária (reunião) diante de um mundo, uma família e um homem cindidos.

A Brazilian master novelist in English at last For André, a young man growing up on a farm in Brazil, life consists of "the earth, the wheat, the bread, our table, and our family." He loves the land, fears his austere, pious father, who preaches from the head of the table as if from a pulpit, and loathes himself as he begins to harbor shameful feelings for his sister Ana. Lyrical and sensual, written with biblical intensity, this classic Brazilian coming-of-age novel follows André's tormented path. He falls into the comforting embrace of liquor as—in his psychological and sexual awakening—he must choose between body and soul, obligation and freedom.

The Cambridge History of Latin American Literature: Brazilian literature. Bibliographies Lavoura arcaica 'Lavoura Arcaica' é um texto no qual se entrelaçam o novelesco e o lírico, uma alegoria poética da sociedade brasileira contemporânea por meio de um narrador em primeira pessoa - André, o filho encarregado de revelar o avesso de sua própria imagem e, conseqüentemente, o avesso da imagem da família. 'Lavoura' recebeu três prêmios - 'Coelho Neto' da Academia Brasileira de Letras; 'Jabuti' da Câmara Brasileira do Livro e 'Revelação' da Associação Paulista dos Críticos de Arte - além de uma adaptação cinematográfica em 2001. With extraordinary transnational and transdisciplinary range, World Literature, Transnational Cinema, and Global Media comprehensively explores the genealogies, vocabularies, and concepts orienting the fields within literature, cinema, and media studies. Orchestrating a layered conversation between arts, disciplines, and media, Stam argues for their "mutual embeddedness" and their shared "in-between" territories. Rather than merely adding to the existing scholarship, the book builds a relational framework through the connectivities within literature, cinema, music, and media that opens up analysis to new categories and concepts, while crossing spatial, temporal, theoretical, disciplinary, and mediatic borders. The book also questions an array of hierarchies: literature over cinema; source novel over adaptation; feature film over documentary; erudite over vernacular culture; Western modernisms over "peripheral" modernisms; classical over popular music; written poetry over sung poetry, and so forth. The book is structured around the concept of the "commons," forming a strong thread which links various struggles against "enclosures" of all kinds, with emphasis on natural, indigenous, cultural, creative, digital, and the transdisciplinary commons. World Literature, Transnational Cinema, and Global Media is ideal to further the theoretical discussion for those undergraduate and graduate departments in cinema studies, media studies, arts and art history, communications, journalism, and new digital media programs at all levels.

The diverse countries of Latin America have produced a lively and ever evolving tradition of novels, many of which are read in translation all over the world. This Companion offers a broad overview of the novel's history and analyses in depth several representative works by, for example, Gabriel García Márquez, Machado de Assis, Isabel Allende and Mario Vargas Llosa. The essays collected here offer several entryways into the understanding and appreciation of the Latin American novel in Spanish-speaking America and Brazil. The volume conveys a real sense of the heterogeneity of Latin American literature, highlighting regions whose cultural and geopolitical particularities are often overlooked. Indispensable to students of Latin American or Hispanic studies and those interested in comparative literature and the development of the novel as genre, the Companion features a comprehensive bibliography and chronology and concludes with an essay about the success of Latin American novels in translation.

Porvir que vem antes de tudo: uma leitura de lavoura arcaica - literatura, cinema e a unidade dos sentidos BRILL

The insatiably curious Edinburgh philosopher and amateur sleuth Isabel Dalhousie returns, taking on a case unlike any she's had before—this one with paranormal implications—in the eagerly anticipated new installment of Alexander McCall Smith's beloved and best-selling series. Through a mutual acquaintance, Isabel is introduced to a six-year-old boy who has been experiencing vivid recollections of a past life, which include a perfect description of an island off the coast of Scotland and a house on the island where he claims to have lived. When the boy's mother asks Isabel to investigate, Isabel naturally feels inclined to help, and so she, her husband, Jamie, and their son, Charlie, set off for the island. To their great surprise, they actually locate the house that the boy described, which leads to more complicated questions, as Isabel's desire to find rational explanations comes up against the uncanny mystery unfolding before her. It's an extraordinarily delicate situation that will require all of her skills, as both sleuth and philosopher, to solve. Back home, as she begins to prepare the next issue of the Review of Applied Ethics, Isabel confronts a threat to her professional well-being in the form of two visiting academics—Lettuce and Dove—who she fears will be a destabilizing influence on her cozy perch in enlightened Edinburgh. But no matter the trials she faces, Isabel is blissfully content in her personal life, which is centered on her young son and devoted husband. Readers will be filled with happiness as they once again spend time with their beloved heroine and the people she holds dear.

Esta pesquisa insere-se no contexto do Laboratório de Estudos em Psicologia da Arte (LAPA-USP) e aborda a temática da correspondência das artes e a unidade dos sentidos. Assumindo a postura interdisciplinar preconizada pelo Laboratório, munido de referencial fenomenológico, estético e psicanalítico, procurei investigar o romance Lavoura arcaica, de Raduan Nassar, e o filme homônimo, dirigido por Luiz Fernando Carvalho, atentando sobretudo para a correspondência estabelecida entre os dois registros. Mais especificamente, a partir da leitura do romance, abordei as condições para o surgimento do filme, debruçei-me sobre a correspondência entre as obras e aportei de volta à linguagem, quando então discuti a temática da diversidade e unidade do múltiplo encarnada em Lavoura arcaica. Voltar o olhar às duas narrativas e reconstruí-las neste trabalho implicou o nascimento de uma terceira narrativa.

While Said focused on the perceptions and stereotypes of the Near East "Oriental" in England, France and the United States, most of these essays study the decentering interplay between "peripheral" areas of the Third World, "semiperipheral" areas (Spain and Portugal since the second part of the seventeenth century), and marginalized social groups of the globe (Chicanos, African Americans, and Filipino Americans). They explore, for example, how China and the Far East in general are imagined and represented in Latin America and the Caribbean, or how ethnic minorities in the United States, such as Chicanos and African Americans, incorporate Filipino characters in their novels or creolize their music with Chinese influences. As the title of this book suggests, sometimes these "peripheral" areas and social groups talk back to the metropolitan centers of the former empires or look for their mediation, while others they avoid the interference of the First World or of hegemonic social groups altogether in order to address other "peripheral" peoples directly, thus creating rich "South-South" cross-cultural flows and exchanges. The main difference between the imperialistic orientalism studied by Said and this other type of global cultural interaction is that while, in their engagement with the "Orient," they may be reproducing certain imperialistic fantasies and mental structures, typically there is not an ethnocentric process of self-idealization or an attempt to demonstrate cultural, ontological, or racial superiority in "South-South" intellectual and cultural exchanges. This way to de-center or to "provincialize" Europe—pace Dipesh Chakrabarty—disrupts the traditional center-periphery dichotomy, bringing about multiple and interchangeable centers and peripheries, whose cultures interact with one another without the mediation of the European and North American metropolitan centers.

A small, furious masterpiece of dominance and submission. A pair of lovers—a young female journalist and an older man who owns an isolated farm in Brazil—spend the night together. The next day they proceed to destroy each other. Amid vitriolic insults and scorching cruelty, their sexual adventure turns into a savage power game between two warring egos. This intense, erotic masterpiece—written by one of Brazil's most highly regarded modernists—explores alienation, arrogance, machismo meltdown, the desire to dominate, and the wish to be dominated.
