The Legion of the Damned was originally a Space Marine chapter known as the "Fire Hawks", made from the geneseed of the Ultramarines (or so they claim). They made a name for themselves during the Age of Apostasy, where they fought well and were rewarded with the destruction of their homeworld, Zhoros, by thermal bombs.

This is the first volume in William Dietz Legion series. Through some twist of fate and politics the French Foreign Legion has survived into the future with its traditions intact. It is no longer French but is one of the three major, and mutually antagonistic, military components of a multi-planet empire with complex politics and a mad emperor.

Legion of the Damned stomp, potentially one could solo. They aren't just space marines but weird not quite there flaming avatars of vengeance. They might be a lost fire hawk space marine chapter, who got turned into strange warp creatures, they might be the souls of dead space marines returned to the fight, or lesser daemons of the emperor.

Partially auto-biographical, and partly historical fiction, Legion of the Damned is the story of one such soldier, Sven. Sven isn't an eager soldier. He hates the Nazis. He deserts and winds up in a prison camp, but by 1941, the Wehrmacht's need for soldiers is so acute that he is released into a prison unit.
